Vol. 3—No. 151 GLENDALE, CALIFORNIA, MONDAY, JUNE 25, 1923 THREE CENTS

The Glendale Daily Press has the Largest Paid Circulation of any Evening Newspaper in this district.

Its issues are never distributed indiscriminately, free, in door yards, streets and alleys.

Our City comment & discussion by THOMAS D. WATSON

Why Not Call All Interested Towns Into Depot Controversy?

THE proposed location for the new Southern Pacific depot has been the means of stirring up quite a controversy.

In fact, so much discussion has arisen that Pasadena and Hollywood have decided that the new location is of interest to them also.

Undoubtedly a majority of the patrons of the depot will come from the surrounding communities. Would there be any harm in allowing them to take part in the discussion?

In an article in a Pasadena paper the statement is made that the Pasadena people can save an hour by taking or leaving the train at Glendale. This would also apply to Hollywood and any other San Fernando valley towns where the fast trains do not stop.

* * *

TAKING the above circumstances into consideration, we feel it would be good policy to allow the surrounding communities a voice in the matter.

We would suggest that the Glendale Chamber of Commerce invite representatives from the Chambers of Commerce of Hollywood, Pasadena, Eagle Rock, Burbank and any other interested town to meet with them to go over the two sites proposed. Then select the one most available to a majority of the patrons.

* * *

THIS is not a matter for a few to decide for the communities. Especially since so much difference of opinion has been expressed.

So far as Glendale is concerned, one site would be just as good as the other, but as to which would be best for the outside communities can be best decided through co-operating with them.

* * *

THE absolute necessity of advertising to the outside public the benefits of the different cities is beginning to be of general acceptance.

If it is necessary to advertise a business in order to be successful it should be doubly beneficial to advertise a community.

In a city composed of successful and progressive merchants they should appreciate that in advertising their city and thereby increasing the population, they are providing the means of an increase in their own business.

* * *

THE money recently subscribed to the Glendale Chamber of Commerce service fund is to be used to advertise Glendale, but this amount will have to be materially increased before any kind of a campaign can be put on.

The Realty Board of Burbank is providing the means for advertising their city on July 26 at the Monroe Centennial Exposition in Los Angeles, this day being set aside as Burbank day at the exposition.

The Realty Board has rented space at the exposition and will exhibit some of the industrial achievements of Burbank.

Burbank is beginning to be quite an important industrial community and it will not be long until all the available ground from Burbank to Glendale is taken up by factories.

* * *

EAGLE Rock has also recognized the benefits of advertising the Dahlia city. It has recently re-organized its chamber of commerce and is expecting great things from it. Statistics show that these three cities are all going ahead, showing about the same percentage of growth. Maybe Glendale and Eagle Rock showing better in the gain of new citizens, and Burbank showing the greatest gain in industries.

Population must have industries and it behooves all cities to see that they secure their share of the new industries.

PACIFIC AVENUE BRIDGE CLOSES FOR REPAIRS

For weeks the roadway of this bridge has been in a very poor condition. Upon this matter being brought to his attention, City Manager Reeves instructed Superintendent De Ward of the street force to close the bridge and repair it. This was done and the work is now under way.

This bridge will be closed until the latter part of this week.

JOHN LOSS IS LESS

John Loss of Glendale, who was arrested at Doran and Brand by Officer Fleming early this morning on a charge of intoxication, was fined $20 when he appeared before Judge Lowe this morning.

BLIND YOUTH TAKES EVANS NEWS STAND

Victim of Industrial Casualty, Inherits Brand, Broadway Corner

FORMERLY IN NAVY

Glendale Daily Press Provides Aid for His New Business

BY JENNIE SWENSEN

After a few days of loneliness the little newsstand at Brand and Broadway, formerly operated by the late W. G. Evans, will have a companion tomorrow, such a companion the white-haired old friend of everyone would have chosen for his successor.

The young man, blind with the tragedy of his youth upon him, who tomorrow takes the place left vacant by the death of Mr. Evans, is R. D. Lindsay, only twenty-three, less than a year out of the navy, and stricken with blindness through accident a short while ago.

Undismayed by the terrible tragedy he has taken the stand as his battle point in life's support. Maybe he will be awkward in making change at first, but he is eager to learn and he will have assistance provided by the Glendale Daily Press until he is able to handle his trade.

It was after being discharged from service in the United States Navy in 1922, after spending three and one-half years as ship's cook on board the U. S. S. Des Moines and U. S. S. Rainbow, that Lindsay met with the injury that deprived him entirely of his eyesight.

According to his own story Lindsay was employed in San Francisco as a painter's apprentice. He was, at the time of the accident, occupied in sand papering the walls of an unoccupied residence which the employer was renovating under contract. Upon returning from lunch on February 13, one month after his honorable discharge, Lindsay mounted his scaffolding and lit a cigar, thinking he would enjoy a smoke while at work. Unknown to him, dynamite caps had been dropped under the scaffolding, and these exploded with a terrific concussion, when cigar ashes fell upon them.

In addition to losing his left eye entirely and the sight in the right eye, Lindsay suffered several minor injuries and was confined to the hospital for ten and one-half months, undergoing treatment.

He appealed to the State Industrial Accident Commission in order to secure compensation to cover the accident. Under the state law, any employer hiring more than five people, must carry insurance to cover any accident that might occur, "arising out of the employment of the person injured, in which it is possible to trace the injury to the nature of the employer's work, or to the risks to which the employer's business exposes the employee."

Due to the peculiar circumstances attendant upon this case, which were cited in the Supreme Court, before which the Accident Commission brought the case, it could not be found that the injury arose out of the employment or that it was proximately caused thereby. On these grounds the case was dismissed by the Supreme Court.

Lindsay was forced to seek the "free wards" in the hospital in San Francisco where he underwent treatment.

"I stayed at the hospital until the San Francisco Blind Association came and got me," said Lindsay today. "It asked me if I wanted to go to work, and I said I did, so they showed me how to make brooms. The damp weather in the north did not agree with me, and since the accident I have had bad attacks of neuralgia. My mother sent for me to come to Glendale, so that I could be with her and I hope to find something to do here.

"I should like to get a corner where I could sell papers and try and save enough money to fix a shop of my own, where I can make brooms in my spare time and sell them. It would take about a hundred and fifty dollars to equip a shop."

Mrs. Lindsay, who was widowed 11 years ago when her husband was killed in an automobile accident, is with her sister, Mrs. Sadie Watson. They operate the Two Sisters hand laundry at 1421 East Wilson.

IS FINED $100 FOR HAVING LIQUOR

G. V. Torgonson of Maryland avenue who, according to the local police, was arrested for having intoxicating liquor in his possession, was fined $100 by Judge Lowe. The amount of the fine, it is understood, has been provided for.

SCHOOL BOARD TO OPEN BIDS FOR BROADWAY

Budget of Year to Be Considered Also on Tuesday

At the meeting of the board of education Tuesday night bids will be opened for the new building on the Broadway campus, and a budget for the coming year will be submitted by Superintendent Richardson D. White. These will constitute the chief items of business but there will also be discussion of propositions for the purchase of additional land to round out school campuses on which a special committee is working. Two such propositions already accepted, are improved with houses, one on Park avenue, having a California five-room house, another on Milford, a five-room plastered house. As soon as the escrow for purchase is completed they will be offered for sale.

GLENDALE ELECTRIC HEARING

Set for 1:30 o'Clock This Afternoon in Los Angeles

CITIZENS TO ATTEND

Electrification to Begin on Receiving the Franchise

The public hearing on the matter of granting the Los Angeles and Salt Lake Railroad company a franchise to construct a passing track along its right-of-way in Los Angeles, is being heard before the board of public utilities in Los Angeles at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

A number of citizens from Glendale, will it is understood, be present at this hearing. City Manager Reeves has been requested to be on hand and will officially represent the city.

The granting of this franchise is of extreme importance to Glendale as a whole and Glendale avenue in particular, as upon this hinges the electrification of the Glendale avenue line. It is the lack of this franchise that has been holding the company up in the work of electrifying this line.

Both the Los Angeles and Salt Lake company and the Glendale Montrose Railway company, it is understood, are ready to go ahead with their parts of the work and operations will start immediately upon the granting of this franchise, it is declared.

TEN KILLED IN ELEVATED RAIL ACCIDENT

[By Associated Press]

NEW YORK, June 25.—At least ten persons were killed and more than forty-five injured this afternoon when a two-car train plunged from the Brooklyn Manhattan transit elevated structure at Fifth and Flatbush avenue in Brooklyn, and were smashed to match wood. Edwin Parcells, motorman of the train, was arrested on a charge of homicide.

Four of the dead were women. The first identified were Alexander Lowsky and Mrs. Louise Wright, both of Brooklyn.

Firemen tossed aside their helmets and rubber garments and plunged into the wreckage, tearing at the timbers with their hands when axe and crowbars could not be used without endangering the injured.

JESS WILLARD IS ANNOUNCED FIT TO FIGHT

JERSEY CITY, N. J., June 25.—Jess Willard is fit in every respect for his fight with Luis Angel Firpo of Argentina to be held July 12 at Boyle's Thirty Acres, a board of physicians employed by the New Jersey boxing commission, decided today.

GLENDALE BEATS SAN FERNANDO

Wallops Valley League Leaders on Local Grounds

1200 SEE THE GAME

Boosters See Very Good Sample of Comeback Baseball

Before the largest crowd that ever attended a baseball game in the history of Glendale, estimated at 1200 persons, the Glendale team triumphed over the league leading San Fernando club by the score of 9 to 2. The home team put up a wonderful brand of baseball both in the field and at the bat which well pleased the great throng of Glendale boosters. Cecil Cruz, the much talked of hurler, was by no means any obstacle to the Glendale bats as Glendale collected eleven bingles from his offerings. Manager Walt Heidler, pitching for his squad, was the shining light of the game, although a little wild, pitched a great game of ball, striking out fourteen men, allowing them but four scattered hits and two runs and getting a scorching single and sacrifice bunt.

"Slim" Harris, playing in the right garden for the home team, was the heavy man with the stick. He connected for a hard hit, well deserved home run, also a 3-base hit and a neat single in five trips to the plate.

"Lefty" Harrison, playing first base, put up a big game. He also hit a 3-base wallop.

This game puts the Glendale team just one half a game behind the leaders as San Fernando has won seven games and lost two and Glendale has won seven games and lost three.

The Glendale team is sure doing its share to pull San Fernando from first place as they are responsible for San Fernando's defeats.

Next Sunday the Glendale team travels to Pasadena to take on the entry from that city.

GRASS FIRES CALL FIRE DEPARTMENT

Engineers from fire house No. 1 were called out to extinguish a grass fire on Glorietta street, Verdugo Woodlands, at 11:45 o'clock Sunday morning. No damage was done by the flames.

MISS BREHME IS CROWNED K. C. QUEEN

Knights and Glendalians Swarm to Haddock-Nibley Park

7500 ATTEND EVENT

Outing Is Most Successful of Any Attempted on the Grounds

Not in vain did the Knights of Columbus send out alluring invitations to the general public to attend its picnic in the Haddock-Nibley park in Verdugo Woodlands. Picnickers began coming at an early hour by all roads and it was estimated that not less than 7500 participated in the pleasures of the day. Best of all, they came with full pocketbooks and spent sums aggregating about $5000, of which the Knights will realize probably in the neighborhood of $2000.

The queen proved to be Miss Eva Brehme of South Maryland. She was crowned in a most gracious manner by the beautiful Carmel Myers, movie favorite, who was presented with a lovely bouquet of American Beauty roses.

In the program of races, little Jack Ferry was the winner in the race for children from 5 to 7; Elizabeth Moore of the race from 7 to 11, and the son of Fred Heusman of the race for contestants 11 to 16.

Mayor Spencer Robinson made one of his characteristic talks of greeting and Hon. Joseph Scott a masterly address. The musical part of the program proved a great treat and included charming numbers by the quartette, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Sheehan and Mr. and Mrs. Harry Girard. The Elks' Glee club of Los Angeles, numbering 40 singers, gave a crackerjack program, and the band of the Glendale Elks' lodge contributed fine numbers.

It was a program which reflected great credit on the chairman, Dr. Milton Berry, who secured the talent.

NEW ENGLAND CO. ANNOUNCES FINE FURNITURE SALE

That fact that the New England Furniture company at 231 South Brand boulevard has made a most enviable record since opening the doors of its splendid store, can be taken as but another evidence of the development of Glendale into the "big city" stage.

Royal Sawtelle, secretary of the company, who is in charge of the store, stated today: "I believe that fact that is recognized by the people at once in looking over our furniture, is that we have been able to offer furniture at a greatly reduced expense to them.

"This case of affairs is only possible because we have the resources with which to buy, and are able to take care of our customers also, who find it convenient to buy on the partial payment plan."

Announcing this policy to be maintained by this store in Glendale, Mr. Sawtelle stated that the management would continue to offer one special each week. Their purchases toward this end are continually being made, and each week every special price will be placed upon some article of furniture very much in demand.

"In August and in February," announced Mr. Sawtelle, "we intend to carry on our main sales. The February sale will be regular after inventory event, to clear up odds and ends. There will be no promiscuous, impromptu sale policy brought about during the year, as we intend to give special values weekly, with our special for each week."

The New England Furniture company's store, which would be a credit to any city, is planning the addition of a gift department to be located on the balcony, which offers space, 45x50 feet. Here the buyer will be able to find the unique in candlesticks, art goods of all descriptions, glassware, dinnerware, and a large assortment of bed linens, comforters, blankets and pillows. This will be a welcome addition to the shopping places of Glendale, especially during the oncoming Christmas holidays.

Among the unusual features included in the New England Furniture company's stock is a set of bedroom furniture, Italian style, walnut. Another in the Louis XV style is also attractive, both coming from eastern markets. For the buyer of average means, the company offers a number of sets at the lowest available prices, coming from California manufacturers. A shipment of high grade rugs is expected in about two weeks, which will form a special attraction in the rug department.

FRACTURES BOTH LEGS IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Frank Weston of L. A., Painfully Injured at Verdugo Road

Frank Weston, 19, 2639 Partridge avenue, Los Angeles, suffered the compound fracture of both legs at the knees, and Theodore Strode, 20, 2710 Alesandro street, Los Angeles, was slightly injured in an automobile accident which occurred at the first bend in Verdugo road south of Montrose at 12:15 o'clock this morning. Passing motorists picked the boys up and rushed them to the Glendale sanitarium, where their injuries were attended to.

It is believed that the boys were unable to make the turn in the road for some reason. The wheels dug into the sand, resulting in the car turning over two or three times. The machine was badly damaged.

The parents of the young fellows were notified and within a short time they were at the bedside of the sufferers.

HARROWER LABORATORY TO EXPAND

Be Incorporated to Meet Needs of Foreign and Domestic Demands

ENGLISH TO INVEST

Dr. Harrower at Present in London, to Return Late in July

Rumors of the sale of one half interest in the Harrower Laboratory to English capitalists were denied this morning by Secretary Howarth, representing Dr. Harrower.

Mr. Howarth explained that it had ben decided to incorporate the laboratory upon the return of Dr. Harrower in the latter part of July. Some of the stock would be sold to English capitalists who have become interested in the product.

In connection with the incorporation, Mr. Howarth declared this step had been made necessary by the increased foreign demand for the product as well as by the domestic demand.

The incorporation will take place after the arrival of Dr. Harrower.

He is in England where he established headquarters in a suburb of London some time ago. He has just returned from a tour of Sweden and Denmark where he went to study social and business conditions. His letters indicate he is having a very good time combining business and pleasure, but that his heart is still true to Glendale and he will be glad to see it again.

THREE ARE HELD UP AT LONG BEACH

[By Associated Press]

LONG BEACH, June 25.—Three holdups were reported to the police last night between 11:35 and 3 a. m. Detectives are now working on the case to determine if the same men were implicated in the three jobs.

Mrs. R. Chase, 938 East Oceon avenue, phoned in at 11:35 p. m. and stated that a very neatly dressed young man had just stepped into her apartment and forced her son to turn to the wall and put his hands up. He then turned his gun toward Mrs. Chase and told her to take her rings off. He took the rings, told the Chase's not to move for five minutes and then left. He obtained two diamond rings.

BOOTLEGGER PAYS $100 FOR VISIT TO THIS CITY

Albert Tonede, 719 Sunset boulevard, Los Angeles, who was arrested at the corner of San Fernando and Colorado, Glendale, at 6:30 o'clock Saturday morning on a charge of transporting liquor, was fined $100 when he appeared before Judge Lowe this morning. The fine was paid.

The two 5-gallon glass bottles and 2-gallon jug of wine, which, the police claim, Tonede was transporting at the time of his arrest, have been confiscated.

HUNTLEY PASSES TO THE BEYOND

Loses Gallant Battle for Life Sunday Morning at Hospital

MEMORY IS HONORED

Local Organization to Attend Services for Beloved Citizen

By ALBERT MARPLE

Many of the local organizations, including the Rotary club, Unity lodge of Masons, and the Chamber of Commerce of Glendale will attend the funeral of John G. Huntley, 1434 North Highland avenue, who died at the Glendale Research hospital at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. The services will be held in the Little Church of the Flowers at Forest Lawn at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning.

While a severe shock to his family and friends, the death of Mr. Huntley which resulted from his recent accident, was not unexpected. He had gradually grown weaker, following the crisis in his condition, which occured several days after the injury.

The services that will be held over the body of Mr. Huntley, have been planned by Mrs. Huntley, and will include the reading of Scripture passages by Rev. E. E. Ford, pastor of the First Baptist church of Glendale.

Surviving Mr. Huntley are his wife, two daughters, Mrs. Seymore Smith and Miss Virginia Huntley, and also one sister, Mrs. Ida Meyer of Santa Monica.

In the death of Mr. Huntley Glendale loses one of its most valuable citizens. He has been identified with many of the movements that have been for the advancement of this city and has been tireless in his efforts for the public good.

When he moved to Glendale in 1906 Mr. Huntley was an investment broker. In 1910 he took over a local auto agency and became connected with Mr. McFadden. The building now occupied by Tanrne & Hall was erected by Huntley & McFadden, two years later.

Mr. Huntley again took up the line of investments and in 1920 joined with W. E. Evans in the real estate and building work. An excellent subdivision north of Kenneth road now bearing many fine residences, and the Pendroy store building, are two of the most notable achievements of this enterprising firm.

During the World war Mr. Huntley was instrumental in putting over several of the liberty loan drives. The Red Cross always counted on him for help, and the Salvation Army found in him a loyal supporter.

During the past two years the Chamber of Commerce and the Rotary club, of which organizations he was a member, took up much of his time. He was active in the Boy Scout work, being head of the list of canvassers for the scout fund.

Mr. Huntley was also a member of Unity Lodge of Masons.

NEWSPAPER MEN KILLED ON TRIP WITH HARDING

[By Associated Press]

DENVER, June 25.—Three men are dead and one injured seriously as a result of an automobile, one of a caravan in which visiting newspaper correspondents with President Harding's special train and local newspaper writers were riding through Denver's mountain parks, going over a cliff in Big Bear Canyon, dropping 75 feet into the creek bed late yesterday. The dead: Sumner Curtis, representative of the Republican National Committee, accompanying the Harding party, and for many years a widely known newspaper correspondent. Thomas F. Dawson, for 20 years a member of the Washington staff of The Associated Press, and later connected with various newspapers. In recent years Mr. Dawson had been director of the historical department of the Colorado Historical and Natural History Society.

Tommie French, a statistician for the Great Western Sugar company, was driving the car.

The injured is Donald A. Craig, manager of the Washington bureau of the New York Herald. He sustained a badly lacerated scalp, bruised shoulders and suffered severe shock. Early this morning it was said at the hospital to which he had been taken that he would recover unless complications developed. The newspaper men who had gone on the trip as guests of the Denver Press Club, had climbed Lookout Mountain and were returning through Bear Creek Canyon, 25 miles from Denver, when the accident occurred.

SWAPPERS' COLUMN IS BIG SUCCESS

Saturday's Novelty Is to Continue All This Week

FIND YOUR SWAP

If It Is Not There, Try Advertising Your Own Offering

BY JENNIE SWENSEN

Did you see the swaps in the Glendale Press Saturday?

If you didn't look them over now. It isn't too late yet to answer those advertisements, and you may see a swap there that looks good to you. If the attractive swap was not there Saturday it should be there today.

It isn't absolutely necessary that you possess the particular items the advertiser announces he wants. He might be induced to change his mind, if the inducement is strong enough. Everyone has had the experience of going into a store with the idea of purchasing one particular thing, and upon finding that such a thing is not carried in stock, purchasing something else, because the salesperson made an apt suggestion.

Those same tactics apply in the case of swaps, so if you see something you want, strike a bargain. Show your business ability. Make the trade. The main thing is swap. If you do not see what you want advertise your swap.

All week you can send in answers to the swaps that appeared in today's and Saturday's Press. Each day there will be new items added to the swap column. Perhaps you have something yourself that would make an attractive swap. If so you know what to do. Call that well known phone number—Glendale 97, and tell us about it. We will do the rest, with the co-operation of our readers. Remember the Glendale Press offers the only classified swap column in Glendale. It had its start Saturday, so get in on the ground floor and lay the foundations for some real swaps. If you are a bargain hunter you will become a swapper. If what you want is not in the swap columns advertise your swap for what you do want. Give other folks a chance!

ALLEGED BOOTLEGGER IS PICKED UP HERE

Jack Wilson, 700 North Howard street, was arrested on Brand boulevard at 2 o'clock Friday morning, by Detective W. G. Royle of the Glendale police force, and a charge of having intoxicating liquor in his possession has been filed against him, according to police records. His bail was fixed at $300, and his arraignment has been set for 11 o'clock Monday morning.

What Our Folks Are Doing

Mrs. O. P. Crawford of Challais, Wash., arrived in Glendale Saturday for a visit with her sister, Mrs. Ed N. Radke of North Brand.

Miss Esther Betch, assistant city clerk of Glendale, will leave Monday morning for Huntington Lake, where she, with her sister, will remain for about two weeks.

Mrs. Minette Sherman of Ethel street, who has been confined to her home for the past four weeks by illness, is now well enough to return to her work in the Hall of Records, Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Selover, and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Talbott of Glendale, recent newlyweds, are enjoying a honeymoon trip in the northern part of the state. According to word received by Mrs. Selovers' mother, Mrs. Wm. Crawford, they are visiting Lake Tahoe and Mt. Lassen. The young people will return to Glendale in about three weeks.

Mark Bradley, past exalted ruler of the Santa Barbara lodge of Elks, and C. I. Woods, also of Santa Barbara, have been visitors for several days at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Crawford of 800 South Central avenue. They were also guests of the Crawfords at the Glendale Elks' dance Saturday night.

Mrs. Frank Vasper, of 321 East Lomita, who left Sunday morning via the Rock Island, goes first to Cortland, N. Y., where she will visit a sister whom she has not seen for twenty years. Later she will be joined there by Mr. Vesper and they will visit Mr. Vesper's mother and sister at Chicago. Their next stop will be at Beaver Dam and Horicon, Wisconsin, Horicon being the town in which Mrs. Vesper was born. They will then go to Algona, Iowa, where they lived for many years. Mrs. Vesper will be accompanied as far as Chicago by Mrs. Stephen Delgardo and daughter Catherine, who are enroute to Toronto, and by Miss Margaret Fife, who is to spend the summer with relatives in Pittsburgh, Pa.

J. A. Newton and family of North Jackson, Glendale, left this morning for Big Bear, where they will enjoy a two weeks' vacation.

Dr. Frederick Rossiter of this city is leaving this evening for San Francisco where he will attend the convention of the American Medical association. He will return to Glendale next Saturday or Sunday.

Hubert Story, son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Story of 641 West Alexander street, celebrated his eighth birthday anniversary Saturday afternoon by entertaining a group of little friends with a party. Ice cream, cake and candy were served as refreshments. Snapshot pictures were taken. Those present were Gertrude Miller, Evelyn Morrison, Alpha Ostrander, Charles Marshall, Jim, Jack and Dan Griffin, Leonard, Elwood and Hubert Story.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Fox of 345 North Kenwood street, Miss Alice Merritt and Miss Margaret Brown of Glendale left Sunday on a motor trip to Seattle. They will stop at Portland, Shasta Springs and Mt. Ranier, going from there to Seattle, where they will leave the automobile and continue their trip by boat to Vancouver, stopping en route at Victoria, B. C. The party will also visit Banff and Lake Louise. On the return trip stop will be made at the Big Trees, Sequoia National Park.

Mrs. Mary Ogden Ryan, principal of the Broadway school, and Miss Ida Waite, principal of the Colorado street school, are leaving Tuesday night to attend the International Council of Education which will open in San Francisco Thursday evening in advance of the N. E. A. convention which will open the first of next week. The ladies will also form a part of the Glendale delegation at that convention which will be attended by Mr. and Mrs. George U. Moyse, Mr. A. L. Ferguson, Richardson D. White, Miss Carol Duncan, grade teacher in Wilson avenue, her sister, Mrs. John Cate, kindergarten teacher, and probably other members of the high school and grade staff.

PRESS CARRIERS DEFEAT OCEAN PARK BOYS

Make Score of 21 to 9 in Runaway Game on High Grounds

By a score of 21 to 9 the Glendale Press carrier boys defeated the Ocean Park carrier boys in the third game between these teams, played Saturday at the Glendale Union High school grounds. "Two-Base-Hit" Mahannah, lead-off man for the Glendale Press carrier team, lived up to his name in fine style Saturday by negotiation three two-base clouts. "String Bean" Bacon pitched the full nine innings.

The Glendale carriers decisively proved their ability to beat the last year's champions in the Express Carriers' League. Ocean Park used three pitchers in all. The first two were batted out of the box. "Third Base" Martin succeeded in holding the local ball team in check.

Umpires McCoubrey and Mitchell officiated during the fracas. The members of the visiting team were taken to lunch as the guests of the Glendale Press.

The lineup and score was as follows:

LITTLE JOHNNY JONES PREVIEW, T. D. & L. TUESDAY

"Little Johnny Jones," the George M. Cohen big feature, will be given its preview at the T., D. & L. Tuesday evening at 8:30, with Johnny Hines as the star.

Hines will make a personal appearance on the stage as an added attraction.

Antonio Moreno in the Paramount Picture "The Exciters"

The regular program for Tuesday and Wednesday is "The Exciters," with Bebe Daniels and Antonio Moreno.

Baker's boy, chum of Gallito, Spain's greatest bullfighter, assistant to a priest, gas-meter reader and stage electrician. That, in brief, is the story of the early life of Antonio Moreno, co-star with Bebe Daniels in the Paramount production of "The Exciters," which comes to the T., D. & L. Theater Tuesday for a run of two days. The story of Mr. Moreno's rise to popularity on the stage and in pictures reads like a dime novel.

Mr. Moreno's first job was working in a bakery in a village near Gibraltar, at a wage of ten cents a day. Antonio's mother tried to direct him towards the priesthood, so he became assistant to a padre. But some tourists took him to the theater one day and it was then that his first desire to become an actor was born.

FOOTHILL FOLKS PLAN GOOD TIME AT BIG FESTIVAL

A fine program has been arranged for the strawberry festival and entertainment which is to be given under the auspices of the Foothill Improvement association at the Grand View school Tuesday evening.

Several Scotch songs will be sung by Mrs. Morgan; Miss Maud Nicol will execute Scotch dances in costumes; Miss Alexander will contribute soprano solos; little Zelda Meadows will contribute fairy dances; and clever readings will be given by Gene Fritch.

Refreshments of strawberries, whipped cream and home-made cake will be served and all for 50c.

YELLOW IS POPULAR

The decided vogue for yellow is revealed in a striking display of costumes of every type. Particularly attractive is a cape of heavy yellow crepe collared with red fox and smart little sport frocks of yellow pleated crepe.

MISS RUTH BLAIR WEDS T. W. COMPTON

Glendale Daily Press Produces Second Romance of June

The second June romance to emanate from the headquarters of the Glendale Daily Press came to light this morning when it was learned that Miss Ruth Blair, employee in the job printing department, had become the bride of T. W. Compton, automobile mechanic of Long Beach, the wedding taking place in Los Angeles at 8 o'clock Saturday night, at the home of a Methodist minister.

The bride was back at her post this morning at the job press, for the job printing department just couldn't do without her. (It admitted it). Miss Blair has been an employee of the Glendale Daily Press job printing department for the past seven months. She is the daughter of Mrs. W. H. Hodnett of Seattle, Washington, whom she is expecting on a visit shortly. Mr. and Mrs. Compton will make their home in Los Angeles.

LUNCHEON, BUNCO, ENJOYED BY CHAPTER B A, P. E. O.

A delicious outdoor luncheon followed by an afternoon of bunco was enjoyed by members of Chapter BA of P. E. O. Friday at the home of Mrs. Frank Arnold, 211 East Lomita avenue, Glendale, when the final meeting before the summer was held.

This meeting had been postponed one week, word having been received that Mrs. Elsie Weaver, member of the chapter and former resident of Glendale, would be in the city at that time visiting with relatives. Hearty greetings were extended to Mrs. Weaver, and also to Mrs. Alice Carter, former member, who resides at McFarland. Twenty-four members were present.

Mrs. Effie Preston won the first prize in the bunco games, and Mrs. Weaver, consolation. The luncheon was served by Misses Mary Cooper and Alice Ripley, members of the hospitality committee.

METHODIST FOLKS HAVE JOLLY PICNIC

Members of the First Methodist Church Sunday school to the number of 450 had a jolly time at the annual picnic Saturday afternon at Monte Vista park. A program of races and baseball games entertained the picnickers until supper, prepared by members of the J. O. C. class, the Sisterhood class, and a special committee, was served. That was followed by a program to which the church choir contributed two numbers, Miss Elsie Whitney gave readings, and prizes were awarded to the winners in the races. The day ended with a baseball game in which a girls' team played the young men of the church, the girls winning because, it was said, Mr. Malone acted as umpire.

UNIQUE DEED IS REVEALED IN TITLE SEARCH

"What Happens When the Democratic Whole People, or Individual, Fail to Pay Taxes," might well be the title of a peculiar sort of "comedy-drama" unearthed during the due course of human events by Attorney A. H. Davis of Glendale in going thorugh the records to quiet title to three pieces of property in Pasadena now owned by City Manager Reeves of Glendale.

In running down the title of one piece of property that Mr. Reeves had purchased at a tax sale and for which he has a deed from the State of California, Mr. Davis found a deed of record whereby a former owner, now deceased, had transferred the property to the Democratic Whole People, as a democratic supreme earthly base for all alike in all utilities equality for all. Unique, to say the least. However, the Democratic Whole People, being unaware of the fact that they were heirs to the property, overlooked the necessity of paying taxes on same. Hence the tax sale and Mr. Reeves is now the present owner of the property.

The peculiar document that deeded this one piece of property to the Democratic Whole People, as discovered by Mr. Davis, reads in part as follows:

"I, Franklin Ide Dygert of Concord, Erie county, New York, for and in consideration of the sum of incomputable hundreds of dollars in hospital care at many times and places, United States dollars, lawful money of the United States, paid by the said parties of the second part, do hereby grant and release unto the said parties of the second part, heirs and assigns forever, all that tract or parcel of land situate in the city of Pasadena, Los Angeles county, California, as it is hereby made known, with the constitutional intent and purpose in accordance as accompany anylitical definition may make comprehensive unto THE People. And that I, Franklin Ide Dygert, a native of Springville, Erie county, New York, U. S. A., while resident in California during the years 1880s did acquire, in accordance with statue law, to that parcel of land designated as Lot 16 in Brent Brothers and Crowell Subdivision of a part of Block M, Painter and Ball Tract, which title deed being in direct line with special privilege grant, graft and henceforward recognizing in controvention the necessity of progressive advance to constitutional federal democratic union co-operative as the fundamental basic necessity to higher advance, perfect democratic equality, justice, true liberty and righteousness.

Therefore, to said aim do I aforesaid, Franklin Ide Dygert, of my own free will unbiased, do hereby voluntarily transfer, restore title deed, place and statue quo unto the Democratic Whole People aforesaid as a democratic, supreme, earthly base for all alike in all utilities equally for all."

LLOYD WILSONS HAVE GRADUATES HONOR PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Wilson of Central avenue and Milford street entertained with a delightful dancing party at their home Saturday night complimenting two recent graduates: Miss Ida Gordon from the Cumnock School for Girls and Miss Dorothy Marie Watson from Glendale Union High school. The house was decorated with a profusion of dahlias.

Those present included Miss Alice Warmbath, Miss Irene Grump, Miss Betty Hewitt, Miss Ida Gordon, Harold Morgan, Franklin Hastings and Mortimer Atlas of Los Angeles, Jack Robinson, Samuel Joseph and Paul Sturdy, who returned to Los Angeles Friday from Yale, Miss Florida Craig of Eagle Rock, Miss Emma Laura Cooper, Miss Marjorie Bailey, Miss Dorothy Marie Watson, Allan Pollock and Burton Kuntzner of Glendale, Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Kingsley, Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Gordon and Capt. and Mrs. Thos. D. Watson of Glendale.

ELKS CLOSE THE SOCIAL SEASON

Members of Glendale lodge of Elks No. 1289 and their ladies enjoyed a delightful dancing party given at the clubhouse Saturday night. This was the last social affair to be given until after the summer vacation. Joe Bellue and his committee were responsible for the unique decorations and favors. Excellent dance music was furnished by a five-piece orchestra. During the evening refreshments of punch and wafers were served.

Earl S. Patterson gave the customary 11 o'clock toast, "To Our Absent Brothers."

PASTOR PARMELE SPEAKS ON YEARS OF MEXICO

Illustrates Subject With Series of Special Slides

"Mexico for 1700 years" was the subject of the discourse delivered last night by Pastor R. W. Parmele in his church at the corner of Isabel and California avenue. The lecture was illustrated by a large collection of stereopticon slides made from pictures taken by Mr. Parmele and fellow missionaries. The pastor was for a number of years general superintendent of the religious work of his church in the Spanish countries between the United States and South America, and has visited practically all of the points of interest in them.

His lecture last night dealt with the habits and customs and religious beliefs not only of the present inhabitants, but of the early inhabitants, as far as it may be known.

"It is now positively known," said the speaker, "that Mexico was inhabited as early as the seventh century. From whence they came, and what inspired them to push on south through desert wastes, is not known, but tradition tells us that they came from the north, and they finally established themselves in the valley of Anahuac, now known as the Valley of Mexico, where is located the present capital. The first known inhabitants were the Toltecs, who had a well organized government, and seem to have had some knowledge of Bible truth.

"After them came the Aztecs, the Alcahauns and the Tezcocans. Before them the Toltecs disappeared as mysteriously as they had arrived. These three were eventually merge into one nation, and formed what was the real Mexican empire. They appear to have adopted many things from their predecessors, and evolved a very fair form of government. But to the religious rites which they learned from their predecessors they added many more heathenish customs, and among them that of human sacrifice. They had their gods of rain, wind, war, etc., besides a large number of household gods. They had their priests and priestesses, and a form of infant christening.

"The City of Mexico proper was started in 1325, over 150 years before America was discovered by the European. An eagle perched on a cactus, growing out of a stone, in the middle of a lake, with his wings spread toward the rising sun was taken as a good omen, and determined the location of the future capital. That is still the national emblem, and may be seen on all Mexican coins. Gradually the first grass houses gave place to permanent stone and cement structures, until the city took on a very stable appearance. A water system was installed, em emperor's court was established, and permanency was given to the settlement.

"Then came the European, Cortez, with his foreign ideas and his foreign religion. His horses and his firearms struck terror to the simple people, but resistance was of no avail. The tree of the sad night still stands, a mute witness to the effort of the Mexicans to expell the Europeans. By force of arms they were subdued. Their gods gave way to the "saints" of the Catholic religion, and their human sacrifice was displaced by the inquisition, and they finally yielded implicit obedience to the See of Rome and his delegates.

"Finally Priest Hidalgo, himself led a revolt against the power of Spain, and though he did not live to accomplish much, the note that he struck lived, and the power of Spain was broken. A republic was established in Mexico, but the grip of the church remained. Under its dictation they lived for many years, and while the people became poorer and poorer, the church waxed richer and richer. Large land holdings came into the hands of the church, and the government was domineered as far as possible by the church. This could lead only to one result—revolution.

"The many revolutions in Mexico have not generally been understood, but they have been looking to one end. They have not always sought to attain this end in the wisest manner, but that end is the thing sought—the establishment of a real republic, free from foreign dictation.

"But in breaking away from the power of the church, many have felt that they were breaking away from religion. This has resulted in atheism, but some have not desired to be so rash, and they have turned to agnosticism, while a third class, wishing still to retain the consolation of supposed communion with the dead saints, have simly extended the scope by adopting spiritualism. Some have remained loyal to the church it is true, but the most of them are bitterly opposed to clerical interterence in governmental affairs. And few are really satisfied with their present state.

"A friendly feeling toward the United States has been brought about of recent years, and now is the time of all times for us to help them. At a dinner given the visiting Americans at the time of the inauguration of President Obregon, the master of ceremonies, in the closing words of his speech expressed what I believe to be the sentiment of practically all well informed Mexicans. He said, 'Today and ever hereafter we desire to live by your side as neighbors, as friends and as brothers.' Let us seize this opportunity to extend a helping hand, and lead them to a better life."

Why worry about the freedom of the seas? The seas and the atmosphere are about the only things that really are free.

"RUTH" PAGEANT IS GIVEN BY S. O. S. CLASS

The general assembly day, Sunday, June 24, was celebrated at the Central Christian Bible school. All of the classes, after a short session of 15 minutes in their respective rooms or departments, met in the social hall in the basement and after a review of the quarter's work and an outline of the coming three months' plans, a beautiful pageant of the book of Ruth was put on, with appropriate settings, by Mrs. Maude Tucker Smith's S. O. S. class. First was the scene where Noami, the widowed Bethlehemite, leaves the land of Moab and her daughter-in-law, Ruth, with the sublime words of renunciation and hope, elects to accompany her, while Orpah is persuaded to stay with her people. Then comes the showing of the wheat field of Boaz, where Ruth, among the gleaners, finds favor with the master, who directs his overseer to favor Ruth in the gleaning. The final scene briefly outlines, in a soliloquy by Boaz, the remainder of the immortal story. The character delineations were as follows: Naomi, Mrs. Naomi Lucas Bennett; Ruth, Miss Bernice Littleton; Orpah, Miss Ramona Ryan; Boaz, Miss Corinne Heacock; the overseer, Miss Beatrice Bolen; gleaners, Misses Alice Mercer and Faye Williams. The male characters were easily and modestly portrayed by the young ladies, as the voluminous robes worn by the men of those times lent themselves easily to such a delineation.

The man of abstract virtue often contains a lot of concrete sin.

BUSINESS WOMEN TO HIKE TO THE WILD COUNTRY

At the dinner and party to be given by the Glendale Business and Professional Women's club Tuesday evening at the Harriet Mae tea room at 6:30 o'clock, Mrs. Whytock, chairman of the outing committee which has just been created, will outline plans for a hike to one of the wild canyons of Glendale Sunday afternoon, June 30, and an opportunity will be given for all who are interested to enroll for the trip. She will also indicate other outdoor activities.

An entertaining program will follow the dinner, and the balance of the evening will be given to cards and to games and dancing. Reservations will be received up to Monday night and can be secured by telephoning Dr. Elizabeth Early, 2474-W; Mrs. Kirkman of the Kirkman Stationery company, Glen 1249, or Dr. Laura Brown, Glen. 1000-J.

75 CHILDREN AT ST. MARK'S SUNDAY SCHOOL PICNIC

About seventy-five attended the annual Sunday school picnic of St. Mark's Sunday school last Saturday at Brookside park where the youngsters had a wonderful day playing games and swimming in the pools, not to speak of the delicious eats of the picnic dinner served at mid-day. They returned to Glendale about about 5 o'clock, tired but happy.

MRS. BRAASCH PRESENTS HER PUPILS

In Recital of Technique and Harmony for Parents and Friends

Before a lagre group of admiring parents and friends, the puplis of Mrs. Constance Braasch, 126 Canyon Trail, were presenetd in recital Saturday afternoon at the Women's clubhouse. Every one of them played with a skill and technique which proved the value of their training, from the newer pupils, who gave the simpler selections perfectly to those who played the most difficult pieces of the old masters.

Everyone distinguished himself, to the pride and satisfaction of those who came to hear them.

Mrs. Fred Groff of San Gabriel, singing "Caro Mio Ben," by Giordani and "Cradle Song," by Alexander MacFayden, was well received. The following pupils of Mrs. Braasch took part in the recital: Agnew Williams, Arte Mae Hunt, Arian Minier, Rex Lunney, Lois Osborne, Alber C. Braasch, Nancy E. Hunt, Olga Griffin, Kathryn Graff, Lillian Gregory, Fyrn Feister, Erna De Lobier, Phronsa Jean Thompson, Ruth Cameron and Iola Stevens.

Truths in Epigram

We always like those who admire us: we do not always like those whom we admire.—La Rochefoucauld.

WELFARE OF CHILDREN

Rather an interesting conference will be held in San Francisco commencing July 28 when delegates from many countries and states will meet to discuss child health. It is of special interest to learn that two delegates will be present from Ecuador and Nicaragua where, it is stated, the percentage of deaths among children up to seven years reaches fifty per cent.

It is said that in these countries health conditions are so lax that there is no prenatal care or advice given mothers. It is proposed to have girls come to this country, study the methods which are in vogue here and return there to institute schools where the proper care of mothers and children will be taught in an effort to lower the infantile death rate and give the children of the mothers of those countries an equal chance with children in other parts of the world.

There is much regarding child health and welfare that can be profitably learned, and the meeting at San Francisco should result in great good. A free discussion of these vital matters by persons intensely interested, the exchange of ideas and the discussions which will be heard on the floor of the conference will all tend toward enlightenment.

There is nothing quite so important as the health of children. To bring children into the world and to see that they have every opportunity for health and education, to give them the right start, is a matter so fraught with possibilities for good that any conference that is earnest cannot help but prove of value.

Invitations to this conference have been sent to seventy-two nations. It is quite significant that Ecuador and Nicaragua were among the first to accept.

CRY BABIES

That was a term to express contempt for the youngsters who went to school with us, and who were unwilling to accept the result of their misdoings with courage and spirit. They were the ones who boohooed at the inevitable results of their own misdeeds. We find them in adult life as well as in child life.

Men are given reason to direct their actions rightfully and sensibly. When because of foolishness, greed, avarice, folly or other causes they waste their substance and get themselves into packs of trouble, they become cry-babies, we can find pity for them and regret, but little of genuine sympathy.

We visit most of our misfortunes upon ourselves. And we do it usually knowing the sure results of our actions. It would be better sometimes if we were made to realize that fact by enduring the consequences of our own acts. There is such a thing in the world as a maudlin sympathy that begets nothing but more folly and weakness.

EDUCATION

People pay taxes for two main reasons. They pay for the purpose of educating young people. And they pay for lack of that education.

The universities, schools and places of education are builded that education may be given our boys and girls. The prisons, almshouses, asylums, houses of correction and the like, represent funds paid because of a lack of right education.

Right education means less of poverty, misery and crime. Wrong education means more of it. Our educators after all are confronted chiefly with the problem of lessening crime. For by their efforts is wholesome living promoted. By the lack of their efforts unwholesome ideals are permitted.

Right education is better than the prison cell, the police officer's club, or the keeper's strait jacket. Let us have more of it.

AGAIN FAVORED

While our Eastern friends are suffering from the effects of unusual heat, California is blessed with coolness and an unusually delightful June. It is not right to make comparisons when suffering and worse are being visited upon a section of the country. We cannot refrain, however, from noting the fact that it is unusual to find ocean, valley and mountain so close together that any kind of climate can be had within an hour's motor drive.

Fertile and splendid as is the valley of the Mississippi, it is a great basin that, when heat descends upon it, becomes an almost unendurable area. There are no ocean stretches to send refreshing breezes abroad, to temper the torrid air. Nor are there mountains to deflect hot waves. California in the matter of weather is peculiarly favored of nature.

TROTSKY AND IRON

Our friend Trotsky believes there should be more of "iron" in the Russian policy. He would release airplanes by the thousand over Europe and bring havoc, especially to England. While friend Trotsky was putting more iron into the Russian blood, doubtless America would be called upon to put more bread into the starving Russian stomach.

It would seem better if friend Trotsky would put more iron into the soil in the shape of plowshares and raise a little wheat for his starving people. The cost of a few thousand airplanes would work wonders for food production, rightfully expended.

Many an innocent youth has taken a young widow's hand and prattled of love, in a spirit of fun, only to find himself facing the parson with her later.

How about the eternal fitness of things when a young man sows wild oats and reaps a grass widow?

THE PRESIDENT

As a reconstruction president, President Harding has borne a lot of responsibility. He has borne it well. Notwithstanding the inevitable criticism, a lot of things have been done for the good of the country in the past two years. Not all has been done that might have been done. It would be too much to expect everything to be done that might be done. But enough has been done to put us in a measure back on our feet, in a financial way.

No president has ever achieved what everybody expected or wanted. Even Lincoln did not do that. But the way was paved in time of tribulation for future prosperity and stability. President Harding has helped to do that. He is entitled to a bit of vacation. We are glad he is having it. And we think he will return stronger in his own self, and stronger in the hearts of the people who have the real good of the country at heart.

Good Morals vs. Good Company

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

"I may not be a good woman but I surely am good company."

Estelle Lawton Lindsey

As the last word of the flippant answer died away I recalled a scene that recently took place in a Los Angeles court. A good woman sat before the judge and begged him to make her children come and live with her.

"No," said his honor, "only you can do that. They will not live with you unless you can make them love you."

And the woman, twisting her hands curiously within each other, replied:

"But, judge, I am a good woman. Nobody can say a word against my character."

Nor could they. Technically, as organized society understands goodness, that woman was good. She was a total abstainer from all forms of recognized vice; and she believed profoundly that because of this her children were doing her a great wrong not to love her.

They did not love her because, unlike the vaudeville actress she was not good company, which means that she had no gift of human companionship. She made her demands purely on her legal rights and what she conceived to be her moral rights and she could not understand why love escaped her.

To be told that she should make herself agreeable to her children merely bewildered her. Wasn't she their mother? Why should a mother put herself out to make life agreeable for children?

This day has brought to my desk two good people who were not good company. One had lost her daughter; the other his wife. The mother was crying and lamenting; the husband was admitting his folly and asking me how he could make up for it.

"Why did your wife leave you?" I asked.

"Well, she worked all day and—I guess I neglected her. She likes to dance and I always thought dancing was wrong. I like to fish and she got tired fishing. I went alone."

"How often?"

"Off and on for a year or two. While I was away she danced, but always in a crowd. You see, dancing broke up our marriage."

"It did not. Your selfishness broke it up. Had you gone sometimes with your wife things might today be different. You just were not a good companion," to which he pled guilty.

Then there is another woman of whom I wot. She at one time had a devoted husband, orphaned and generous. A traveling man, he never neglected his wife when he was at home.

But she was a "good woman." She had saving on the brain as a vessel has barnacles on its keel. Every invitation her husband extended her to come out to dinner was met with a lecture on the wickedness of waste, and the conversation invariably ended with:

"Let's stay home, dear, and save that money."

And as the years passed her husband found some one else who was good company. And now the wife tells all and sundry how her goodness failed of its reward.

Far be it from me to depreciate goodness, but to the good I would utter this warning: "In being good do not fail to be also companionable, for if you do the chances are that those you love will turn to good company, which is human. A perambulating tract may interest a passing bigot, but as a husband holder it is about as valuable as mathematical formula.

After all one can keep the commandments, pay one's debts, respect the rights of others and at the same time laugh and sing and dance.

Morals are valuable, highly so, but they can't take the place of laughter and merriment in a world where brightness attracts even the night moths. Be good company, if you don't know how study and find out. It's more important to entertain people than it is to understand Calculus or to know the history of the protestant reformation.

THE RIGHT WORD

By W. CURTIS NICHOLSON

ON THE USE OF DON'T

(Find the error in this article)

Before the rule is read, it should be noted that do not is preferable to don't in careful speech and writing. Only use don't with the following words: I, we, you, and they, and words designating more than one object; as trees, books, eyes, Smiths.

Examples: They don't belong to me; We don't understand; The Smiths don't live there now; Eyes don't always tell the truth.

Warning: Never use don't with he, she, it, or with a word designating one object; as, tree, book, eye, Smith. Here the right word is doesn't; as, He doesn't have any; Mrs. Smith doesn't know the truth; The book doesn't belong on the table.

Vocabulary

The word crystalline means like a crystal; transparent pure; pellucid. Crystalline is pronounced kris'-tal-in (i as in hit; a as in final; i as in habit).

Queries

J. L. Boardman: "Isn't it better to leave out such expressions as 'and oblige,' 'beg to remain,' and others of like nature from a letter?

Answer: Yes.

"The Staff": "Everybody here is much perturbed. It seems that fifty per cent of the staff are willing to wager five years' salary that the word melancholy is separated as follows: me-lan-choly. The rest swear in every color and lavender that mel-an-choly is correct."

Answer: Mel-an-choly is correct.

THE LISTENING POST

By James W. Foley

JAMES W. FOLEY

Jones is a self made man.
He had little opportunity in youth.
As we consider opportunity.
He fought for his chance in the world.

His education. as we consider education, was little.

An occasional school term now and then.

* * *

Being deprived of what we consider education, he wanted it.

Just as we are likely to want things we are deprived of.

And he sought for and found books.

Read them and studied them.

And helped educate himself.

* * *

Lincoln did that.

Founded a liberal education on a few borrowed books.

But books were few and hard to get.

And he devoured what he could get.

For we appreciate most the things we find it difficult to get.

* * *

Jones got an education that would serve.

And he made use of it.

It was hard to get and he made the most of it.

What is difficult to get we do not often waste.

And Jones did not waste his education.

* * *

The habits he formed while struggling led him to be careful.

He did not want to waste learning.

Neither did he want to waste anything else.

And he developed thrift.

And it served him well in a material way.

* * *

So he established a business.

Made it successful by the habits he formed.

And grew wealthy and prospered.

Married and had children.

* * *

And he had the paternal instinct.

He wanted his children to be happy.

He wanted to spare them the trials and difficulties he had had.

And so he made education easy for them.

Made everything else easy.

* * *

And the boys grew up in ease and did not have to struggle.

Naturally enough they did not appreciate the real value of what they got without struggle.

And their fibre was not as tough as Dad's.

* * *

It was all very natural that Jones should provide liberally for them.

It was all very natural that that liberal provision should weaken them.

And it was all very natural that they did not develop as rugged fibres as Jones did.

* * *

So it is not often that Jones has a son as rugged and self confident and capable as he is.

Because the method of training is different.

One is trained in the school of struggle.

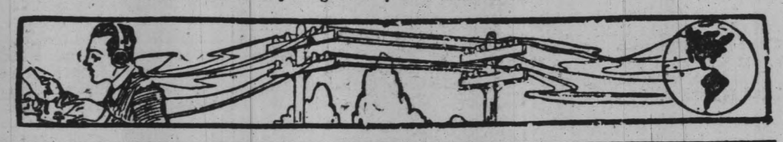
The other is trained in the school of ease and luxury.

* * *

And yet it is only natural that Jones should do for his children as he does.

And so it is that one man builds a business and a fortune.

And that in rare instances he has sons who will maintain it.



Songs of the Poets

The Year That's Awa'—By John Dunlop

Here's to the year that's awa'!
We will drink it in strong and in sma';
And here's to ilk bonnie young lassie we lo'ed,
While swift flew the year that's awa'.

Here's to the sodger who bled,
And the sailor who bravely did fa';
Their fame is alive though their spirits are fled
On the wings of the year that's awa'.

Here's to the friends we can trust
When storms of adversity blaw;
May they live in our songs and be next to our hearts,
Nor depart like the year that's awa'.

THE PROFOUND MYSTERY

By DR. FRANK CRANE

ONE of the profoundest mysteries in the world is that the one you have wronged is not so likely to hate you as the one that has wronged you.

There is no spite so terrible as the spite of the person who has done you an injury and knows it and knows that you know it.

Perhaps this is due to the "inferiority complex." That is, when you have done a man a wrong he realizes that you are morally beneath him and he looks down on you a bit; but when a man has done you a wrong he feels that he is morally beneath you and resents it.

The most constant and ineradicable weed in the garden of the human heart is envy.

I remember when I was a boy that I found it difficult to understand why the people crucified Jesus. He never attacked anybody or harmed anyone, but went about doing good. I was amazed at the fiendish delight of those who crucified Him.

Since I have grown older I have come to understand this strange quality in human nature.

There is no doubt in the world that we take an impish delight in dragging down the man who is in a high position. When the deacon in the church is discovered to be an embezzler there is more joy among the ungodly than over ninety and nine whose names are yet unsmirched.

Shakespeare notes the same quality in the way the world regards feminine beauty and charm.

It is very hard not to believe in the devil. Indeed much more difficult to disbelieve in him than to believe in him.

The very worst trait of human nature is that feeling of anger that springs up in us when we see another handsomer, happier, better or more fortunate than ourselves.

And this is a very positive thing and often takes the form of desiring to hurt.

I like to believe in humanity and really think that all men are fair and all women are good. But the troublesome fact continues to obtrude itself that we experience a fiendish pleasure in dragging down those who are up, in spattering mud on those who are clean and in seeing misfortune come to those who are fortunate.

If you can go through your heart and find not one speck of this feeling within you, you are indeed to be congratulated.

(Copyright, 1923, by Dr. Frank Crane)

EASTERN POINT OF VIEW

HOW TO GET RICH

[Charleston News and Courier]

In order to grow rich it is only necessary to do any one of several things. The New York Tribune tells us that the British Institute of Patentees has made a list of these things, chiefly for the benefit of young inventors. All one has to do in order to acquire many millions is to invent glass that will bend, a smooth road surface that won't get slippery, a furnace conserving 95 per cent of the heat, unshrinkable flannel, a noiseless airplane, a motor engine weighing one pound to the horsepower, a way to utilize the tides, a pipe easily cleaned, or a soft drink which will keep and of which people will not tire.

This is not a complete list of the things that have hitherto stumped human ingenuity, but it is interesting despite its incompleteness. Some of the things on the list look very easy compared with other things that have been accomplished. The list, too, is conducive to a proper humility. What business have we to try to lay roads through the high air when we haven't yet learned how to build a perfect road upon the ground, a thing that ought to be easy by comparison? But often the "easy" things are the hardest. Medical science has conquered yellow fever and the bubonic plague, but it can't cure a cold.

HARDING AND "THE LEAGUE"

[New York Tribune]

Whether one looks to Mr. Harding's words or his deeds, we do not see how any open-minded observer can question his sincerity or his achievement. Within two years after taking office, following an intensely bitter campaign over the league issue he has brought America within measurable distance of participation in the international court. That court is fundamentally independent of the league. Yet it unquestionably owes its existence to the league. President Harding, while stoutly opposing entrance into the league itself, is earnestly advocating our co-operation with the league in aiding and developing its most important achievement, the international court.

DIFFERENT ONLY IN SHAPE

[New York Herald]

The new shape of the American flag, which President Harding is expected soon to announce, is in the proportion of 1 unit of width to 1.67 units of length. That is a flag five feet long would be three feet wide. This is a considerable change from the present official proportions of the flag. On May 29, 1916, President Wilson's executive order gave the proportions as 1 to 1.9; that is, the official flag is now nearly twice as long on the "fly" as it is wide on the "hoist."

The new dimensions have been arrived at after an investigation by a committee from the government departments, working with the United States fine arts commission. They experimented with flags on poles and took measurements of the flags which fly in front of St. Mark's in Venice. As a result of all this painstaking they bring the national banner back to almost exactly the proportions in which Betsy Ross made the first flag this nation ever flew.

A little longer or a little wider, the flag still fills the eye and the heart. No decimal points can indicate what it means to those that live under it. It is what Horace Porter called it, "our sole emblem of fidelity to country." The experts can measure the bunting, but the meaning of it is immeasurable.

FOLK'S GREATEST SERVICE

[New York Times]

Folk did far more for reform by hunting the Missouri grafters than by any of the more or less speculative reforms which he favored in his later years. He was a prosecuting attorney who got indictments and convictions instead of contenting himself with virtuous talk to the public.

SHARK-TOWED SUBMARINES

A CHAT IN SCIENCE

By EDWIN E. SLOSSON

It is funny that anybody should be surprised at a parliamentary allusion to Great Britain's determination to remain mistress of the seas when she has made that plain by legislation, poetry and action for the last 400 years. It is only a few years since as her associate in the late war we joined in the singing of

"Rule Britannia! rule the waves!
All thine shall be the subject main,
And every shore it circles thine."

But it is not so commonly known that one of the proposed methods by which Great Britain was to hold her supremacy of the seas was the use of submarines towed by sharks. The inventor of this ingenius scheme was Dr. Erasmus Darwin, grandfather of Charles, who derived more than one hint for his theory of evolution from Erasmus Darwin's volume of versified science, "The Botanic Garden."

The most famous passage in this curious work is that in which Erasmus Darwin anticipates the automobile, the steam tug and the airplane:

"Soon shall thy arm, unconquered Steam! afar
Drag the slow barge, or drive the rapid car;
Or on wide-waving wings expanded bear
The flying-chariot through the fields of air.
Fair crews triumphant, leaning from above,
Shall wave their fluttering 'kerchiefs as they move;
Or warrior-bands alarm the gaping crowd,
And armies shrink beneath the shadowy cloud."

This is a good guess for 1789, although it is not steam but gasoline that we are using for automobiles and airplanes. But Grandfather Darwin could not anticipate the internal combustion engine and he knew that steam would not work under water, so when he undertook to describe a submarine he could not see how the boat could be propelled unless fish could be harnessed to it. So he wrote:

"Led by the Sage, lo! Britain's sons shall guide
Hugh Sea-Balloons beneath the tossing tide:
The diving castles, roof'd with spheric glass,
Ribbed with strong oak and barr'd with bolts of brass,
Buoy'd with pure air shall endless tracts pursue,
And Priestley's hand the vital flood renew—
Then shall Britannia rule the wealthy realms,
Which ocean's wide insatiate wave o'er whelms:
Confine in netted bowers his scaly flocks,
Part his blue plains, and people all his rocks,
Deep, in warm waves beneath the Line that roll,
Beneath the shadowy ice-isles of the Pole,
Onward, through bright meandering vales, afar,
Obedient sharks shall trail her sceptered car,
With harness'd necks the pearly flood disturb
Stretch the silk reign, and champ the silver curb.

Absurd as this is as science and poor as it as poetry yet it has many points of interest. The author solved the question of submarine ventilation by the means now employed, that is, the renovation of the air by oxygen gas which had been discovered only fifteen years before by his friend, Joseph Priestley, a preacher-chemist, who was driven out of England and came to America because of his political and religious non-conformity.

But Erasmus Darwin made a bad guess in his surmise as to the motive power of the future submarine. Man has never been able to train to harness any animals of the sea. His control stops with the shore.

And now he is getting ready to dismiss the ox and horse from their long servitude and rely instead upon the inanimate energy of fuel and falls to run his slow barges and rapid cars as well as his flying-chariots and sea-balloons.

OUR CHILDREN

By ANGELO PATRI

THE GIRLS

The city was filled with the clamor of boys. The papers carried stories about them. One played at being mayor and another at being the comptroller for a day. Boys took the principals' chairs in schools and boys paraded thousands strong.

"Why isn't there some reference to girls?" demanded somebody of the busy man in charge of Boys' week.

"Why, we computed the percentage of girls that were sent to institutions or placed under arrest, or got into trouble one way and another, and it was negligible. We thought it better to put all our effort on the boys."

Which may have been the very right thing to do. I'm not sure. In my mind something rebels. Surely one need not get into jail before being thought worthy of care and attention and appreciation!

So here's to the girls!

All honor to them that they are not arrested or sent to institutions. All praise to them for keeping as near right as they can and keeping out of trouble with the "authorities." It is no harder for a boy to be decent than it is for a girl, but the girl works harder at it!

And for that they are called the weaker sex, and boys are begged to consider their weakness and protect them. That day has long gone by. The notion that girls could not run, climb, swim, study and work as the equal and competitors of boys has been laughed out of existence.

At school the girls are beating the boys at their studies. They can swim and make records; they can play games and gain health and strength and team spirit. They can earn their own living without help from the boys. From this generation on the boys will have to earn their places in the lives of the girls. The air of condescension is just funny. The girls know.

I'm glad for them. Every time I pass the playground and see them racing across it, their knickered legs free and graceful with the power and strength of health I cheer inwardly and hope that their grandmothers asleep on the hill know and rejoice.

Poor things! Burdened with dragging petticoats, choked with tight clothes, lamed with ill-shod feet, crippled by convention! How they must smile down on those free healthy growing girls. Fine girls.

On second thought I don't envy that week for the boys. They probably need it far more than the girls, just as the good man said. Soon the boys will find they have all they can do to hold their own with them.

For the girls of today are strong in body and mind. They are sane as to their relations with the boys. They are no longer looking up to them and they expect to be able to look across, on the level, at them. The boys will have to step out a bit lest the girls look down.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

A friend of mine investigated the sucker list industry the other day. Not to delve too deep into the product of his inquiry, I'll quote one question and answer only. He was talking to a shark who for years has made a fine living by selling wind to people who live on the Great Plains.

"His come-on letters are just foolishness," said my friend. "But out of them he has managed to get an extravagant home, an extravagant car, and an extravagant wife. Somewhere, too, he has baled away a lot of the kale he has whispered out of the suckers.

"'But I cannot see why any one should give you money,'" my friend said to him. "'These letters of yours are puerile. They should not deceive the intelligence of a four-year-old man child. If they came to my office they would slip over the glass-top into the waste basket.'

"'You don't savvy the burro,' said the shark, with a grin. 'If you write enough letters to people, asking for money, some one will send you some.'"

So there you are. When the reader gets a letter inviting him to buy a few shares in the Gee-Litter Oil Mine, from which solidified oil is to be taken in chunks, and which is positively guaranteed to pay not less than forty per cent a month on par, the shares being now worth a measly dollar a bunch, he can be sure of one thing.

Some one, dear reader, has sized you up as good raw material for the sucker list. And if you ever buy one share, Heaven help you. For your name will never come off.

A LECTURE ON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

Christian Science: God's Revelation of Spiritual Healing

by

Judge Frederick C. Hill, C. S.
Member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass.

Christian Science is, as its name implies, essentially Christian, and its practice being predicated upon absolute law, it brings healing from sickness and deliverance from sin.

There is within the so-called human mind a fixed and abiding conviction that it is legitimate to be healthy and happy. This inherent conviction is evidence per se of the fact that health and happiness is the normal state of being. This desirable end can be accomplished through right, scientific thinking; hence it must be perfectly clear that Christian Scientists, looking toward the idealistic or spiritual, are concerned about the mental rather than the outward or material.

Bible Revelation

I have assured you that this Science is essentially Christian. This being the case, Christian Science, as a great religious movement, must be based upon a revelation of the teachings and practical truths presented in the Bible. Lest there be confusion in the thought of those who have never investigated this subject, I assure you at the outset that Christian Scientists use for their study and in all their church services one Bible authority, that of the King James Version of the Old and the New Testaments. There are many religious denominations and bodies, each claiming to teach and practice the Christian religion; each claiming the Bible as authority for creed and doctrine, and each claiming salvation as the desired goal. There are wide and seemingly irreconcilable differences of opinion among these Christian bodies and an utter disagreement as to the fundamentals of salvation. There is but one conclusion to be drawn: individuals have ceased to do the one natural, normal thing—that is, have ceased to think spiritually and have accepted as facts many conclusions which are not true. As a natural consequence confusion follows, as that which is untrue can never be made the foundation for that which is enduring and true. At this point it is well to understand that there is one absolute truth about everything, and regardless of one's sincerity in believing otherwise, that truth remains infallible and undisturbed, for nothing in human belief can ever change that which is absolutely true.

The Discoverer and the Discovery

Christian Science as it is presented to you and to me came through the discovery by Mary Baker Eddy of the operation of absolute, fixed spiritual law. In an impartial investigation of Christian Science it is desirable, in fact quite essential, to know somewhat of its Discoverer and Founder. I feel quite safe in assuming that my early experience in the investigation of this subject is similar to yours. My first impulse was to inquire, "Who is Mrs. Eddy? What did she discover and found?" The answer to these questions is simple and helpful. Mrs. Eddy was a devout and lovable New England woman, deeply interested in the Bible. Early in childhood she displayed a keen perception of the underlying truths contained in Bible narratives. Through her research and study of the Bible she noted that perfect trust and confidence in God's laws were followed by permanent and fixed results, and that blessing and healing were part and parcel of His infinite plan. She concluded that God governs His universe, His creation, through infinite intelligence or absolute law, and that this law, being spiritual, could be understood and applied, and that when so applied renders null and void the false beliefs of law inherent in the so-called human mind. She concluded that this law could be definitely known and stated, and was as fixed and unfailing as its divine Principle. She further concluded that since disease has no more authority than sin it could be cured and health restored to the body in exactly the same manner and with the same certainty of results as sin could be destroyed. During her investigation an injury caused by an accident led her to discover the spiritual law by which she was healed herself; and later, upon her restoration to health, she applied the same law to the relief and healing of others. In the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 107), Mrs. Eddy says: "In the year 1866, I discovered the Christ Science or divine laws of Life, Truth, and Love, and named my discovery Christian Science." She had discovered the absolute, fixed, and eternal laws of God and had proved that they are present and operative, and can be relied upon to heal the sick as they did in the time of Jesus. She found these laws "compassionate, helpful, and spiritual" and named them "Christian" (Retrospection and Introspection, p. 25); and because they constitute the absolute laws of God, are available, and can be demonstrated, she named them "Science." Hence, Mrs. Eddy discovered and proved the divine laws of Spirit, the laws of Life, Truth, and Love. After this discovery she subjected it to proof, and being convinced of the healing and redeeming ministrations of these spiritual laws, she determined to give to the world the benefit of her observation and discovery. Accordingly she wrote and published "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," and designated it the Christian Science textbook. The reading and study of this book, in connection with the Bible, has brought health and healing to many, and is indeed a key to God's inspired Word, the Bible.

Regardless of conflicting reports, I make this positive and emphatic declaration of fact: Mary Baker Eddy is the Discoverer and Founder of Christian Science and has been so decreed by our courts.

After her discovery, Mrs. Eddy founded a church, "designed to commemorate the word and works of our Master, which should reinstate primitive Christianity and its lost element of healing." So she states in the Manual (p. 17), that Church, founded by her, is The Mother Church in Boston; and the Church whose hospitality you are now enjoying is an authorized branch of The Mother Church.

Christian Scientists are grateful to Mrs. Eddy for her years of devotion in reestablishing practical Christianity and its lost healing art. They love her in the true spiritual sense, but do not worship or deify her. They are engaged in perpetuating and applying her discovery to the needs of humanity. Because she loved God and because she also loved those who apparently did not love her, Christian Scientists are earnestly striving to make practical her saying, "A genuine Christian Scientist loves Protestant and Catholic, D. D. and M. D.,—loves all who love God, good; and he loves his enemies" (Miscellany, p. 4).

Reality Is Basic

It will early be discovered that Christian Science emphasizes the final destruction of sin and the healing of bodily infirmity. Some of our religious friends have offered the criticism that Christian Scientists make too much of the healing element. At no time does the human mind part with cherished beliefs or relinquish traditional claims until proof, clear and positive, has been presented showing that there is a better way. It is not surprising, therefore, that after material methods have failed and Christian Science treatment has restored health and happiness to the individual, very much should be thought and made of the healing element. In fact, all Christian Science practice is healing in character whether it is applied to bodily afflictions or to other forms of discord. The healing of bodily ailments by prayer is the "eye opener" to the sick and is positive and indisputable proof that matter is submitting to spiritual law. Likewise the false beliefs which material man calls law cease to govern and bind him in proportion to his spiritual discernment. It is natural in the consideration of this important matter that questions should come to us. I have asked myself many times: Is there an ideal, basic state of being? If so, how may I know this ideal state? How may I become conscious of the way of escape from the baneful effects of apparent disease and disaster? Rightly to understand and draw proper conclusions there must be a clear discernment between that which is absolutely real and basic and that which, to the senses, seems to be real and is believed by the human mind to be such.

Common experience teaches us that we are consciously or otherwise governed by and subject to fixed laws. These laws operate in an impartial, uniform manner, regardless of our understanding or recognition of them. The individual who rejects their operation or who disputes their authority, through ignorance or otherwise, pays the penalty for such infraction in proportion to the magnitude of the offense. The laws of gravitation, mathematics, harmony, and the laws regulating individuals in society operate uniformly and effectively, regardless of the beliefs of those who are uninstructed or who for some reason refuse to recognize and accept their supreme authority. For example, a score of individuals selected from the ordinary rank and file of humanity will agree that a ball forced into the air will return to the earth, or that any object projected forward over Niagara Falls will descend to the bottom of Niagara River. When asked why these results are manifest a very large proportion of these individuals can give no explanation whatever of the law involved. Some may have a very vague and uncertain belief, not based upon any scientific fact, that the result is due to some force from above. Quite likely one alone can explain the theory of the operation of gravitation. During all this time gravitation is operating uniformly undisturbed by ignorance or false belief, and the earth and the planets respond to its force just the same. False belief, lack of any belief in or knowledge of gravitation, has not affected its operation. In the so-called material universe the law of gravitation is basic, fundamental, and is there to be understood and intelligently utilized by man. I am sure a personal experience may be helpful in further explaining the distinction between the real and that which is believed to be real.

Some years ago I presented at a bank a ten-dollar bill, a silver certificate. The usual words, "This certifies that there has been deposited in the Treasury of the United States of America, ten silver dollars, payable to the bearer on demand," were printed in the usual type across the face of this bill. I believed this bill to be genuine and, in the light of past experience, I had a right to expect that the paying teller of the bank would at once count out to me ten silver dollars or their equivalent in exchange for this bill. However, contrary to my expectations, in a very short period of time the teller returned the same bill to me with the word "counterfeit" stamped in large red letters across its face. In a moment of time and without any effort on my part the status of that bill became apparent. I no longer looked upon it as a genuine medium of exchange. It represented nothing and was nothing. It was merely a counterfeit. I no longer expected ten dollars in exchange; I was absolutely convinced that no person would ever be deceived again by that particular bill. My belief in its value was sincere but erroneous. It had escaped detection perhaps many times, yet from first to last it represented nothing, was a counterfeit, and needed but the trained and skillful knowledge of that paying teller and a little red ink to destroy forever its fictitious value. Through all this experience there was a real genuine silver certificate in circulation and its value remained absolute and undisturbed. The sincere belief of every person in the world could not make a genuine bill out of that counterfeit. The basic, fundamental value was not there. That bill was but the visible evidence of the counterfeit mind which had produced it, and which, until detected, endowed it with its own fictitious value.

Good and Evil Mental

In the consideration of Christian Science it is absolutely essential to understand the nature of good and evil and to be able to distinguish between that which is intrinsically good and that which presents merely the appearance of good.

Human laws have been devised for the protection of individuals as units in the commonwealth. Some of these laws are of ancient origin; so much so that mankind has no knowledge of their source except that they are founded upon usages and customs, which have prevailed so long that the "memory of man runneth not to the contrary." These laws, like all others, are based upon the theory that there is a supreme, sovereign power, within the state, commanding that which is right and prohibiting that which is wrong. It should be remembered that these laws have been formulated by the human desire to rise above the chaotic condition of no law, and many of them are profound examples of the human attempt to pattern the decrees of infinite, divine justice. There is a well-defined and recognized rule or law which prevails in most civilized countries that every individual is presumed to be innocent of any wrongdoing until proved guilty by competent evidence beyond every reasonable doubt. This presumption is an essential and substantial part of the law of the land, and it is the duty of courts and juries to maintain this presumption of innocence up to the very moment that it is overcome by the evidence. So strong is this presumption of innocence that the complaint, information, or indictment against an individual can never be used in and of itself to contradict or overcome this inherent presumption with which every individual is clothed. It is further a presumption of law that every one is honest, truthful, and law-abiding until the contrary is shown. Also the presumption of normality in mind and body prevails, and our courts guard very jealously these wise and humane presumptions. Notwithstanding, human observation and experience present evidences of crime unchecked. Moral delinquency seems to run riot; dishonesty, untruthfulness, and infirmity in mind and body would wholly eclipse the desirable ends to be attained. Christian Scientists freely admit that such conditions of mind and body should not exist among Christian people. Common observation will convince any rational person that much confusion is due to the lack of absolute knowledge regarding the sources of good and evil. Christian Scientists do not close their eyes to these apparently alarming conditions. Indeed, they are wide-awake to the real cause, and are doing the only thing that can be done to destroy these false beliefs and to maintain these humane presumptions, not merely in theory but by making them real, enduring, basic laws in fact. Christian Science declares in no uncertain manner that God is the source of all good and that the human, the carnal, mind is the procuring cause of all evil. It presents logical, irrefutable proof that man lives by divine decree, and that the Scriptural text, "In him we live, and move, and have our being" declares the real status of man, and not merely an emotional theory. It declares emphatically that evil is not a person, place, or thing; that it is not a cause or creator, and that there is no realm or dominion over which evil is the sovereign power. In fact, it denies that evil has any power except such as it assumes in human belief, and it then destroys this assumed power by overcoming the human mind with the divine Mind.

The Worship of the One True God

Christian Science is a religion and has been so decreed by the courts of our land. Its practice involves obedience to the first great commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." Its keynote is expressed in the words of the Master, "Thou shalt love the Lord thy God with all thy heart, and with all thy soul, and with all thy mind. This is the first and great commandment. And the second is like unto it, "Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself." Its paramount object is worship—the worship of the one true God. Through this worship healing is experienced. It will be apparent that all true worship must rest for an enduring foundation upon the right concept of God. The wrong concept of God lays the foundation for the superstructure of false belief and idolatry. Mere human belief about God can never be substituted for, nor urged in support of, His real nature. To the carnal mind, essentially material, God appears as a magnified human being—a superhuman man. This conception of His nature and character has prevailed almost universally for centuries, as evidenced by an illustration of "The Heavenly Father and the Evil One" in Faust. In this illustration, God is portrayed as a large, old man, with a long, white beard, seated upon an elevated throne. Long flowing robes cover His body, and in His right hand is a large scepter. His countenance is stern and commanding and there is no evidence of compassion or love in His appearance. It is not reasonable to conclude that such a concept of God could possibly be conducive to true worship or that such a superhuman creature could possibly occupy all space and could hear and answer millions of conflicting human prayers and petitions. Such belief borders upon the ridiculous, and yet many individuals are sincerely holding in thought to such a concept of God and are worshiping that concept of Him. Such practice is idolatry, pure and simple. The fact that there are so many differing religious creeds and beliefs is evidence of gross ignorance and confusion as to the real nature of God. The whole human family will never be united in one brotherhood until there is a common recognition and worship of Him in His true nature and character.

Christian Science presents to you the conception of God as "infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love" (Science and Health, p. 465). It presents nothing about Him save that which is supported and sustained by Bible authority and which is rational and comforting. When it is perceived that God is infinite, divine Mind, it at once becomes apparent that like produces like, hence His creation must of necessity be mental and not material. God must be sought and found, if at all, through the avenue of divine Mind, and not in or through matter. It then becomes clear that the real man whom God pronounced good, lives, moves, and has his being in Mind, and is a spiritual, not a material being; and because he is an idea in Mind he can and does express the qualities of that divine Mind which created him. This fact accounts for his ability to think. Even though mortals have a very faulty and imperfect knowledge of the operation of Mind, and believe that thoughts have their origin in the human brain, yet thought existed before and independently of brain tissue and emanates from the one Mind, God. This conclusion is further supported by the fact that all mortals as infants are fully equipped with brain tissue. No one, however, will seriously contend that an infant exercises the functions of rational thinking. In our more advanced experience as thinkers, the material elements of the brain remain the same. Thought, however, unfolds, expands, and develops, eliciting the conclusion that the brain, as matter, has no inherent intelligence and is not the source of mental action.

God is also defined as infinite Love. This term expresses His divine nature and His compassionate relation to His children. This divine nature accounts for His infinite goodness and His watchful, protecting care. Since God is infinite Love, this fact implies infinite goodness; and since He possesses all power, all presence, and all knowledge, it follows as a necessary conclusion that all manifestations of Him must partake of His goodness. Constituted authority, therefore, reposes in Him and is essentially good. From this argument it is apparent that there being no good in sin, sickness, or death, God is not the author of them, and, from His very nature could not have a knowledge of them. Such a knowledge would imply the elements of destruction, which are no part of good and would therefore be the very opposite of infinite Life. If that which is evil and destructive does not emanate from God, from whence does it spring and from what source does it derive its seeming power? Paul says, "The carnal mind is enmity against God." Interpreted in the light of our definition that God is infinite mind, the saying becomes clear that evil and all destructive elements have their suppositious source in the "carnal," human mind, and depend upon that so-called mind for all that they assume to be. Now, the mortal mind is a counterfeit, an erroneous belief; it is enmity against the one true Mind, God.

God is also defined as infinite Principle, and Christian Scientists worship him as such. When it is understood that there is but one omnipotent, omniscient, and omnipresent cause, embracing within itself all wisdom, power, truth, law, order, and perfection, it will be clearly apparent that the term "Principle" is descriptive of the exact nature of the one absolute God. It will be observed that divine Principle is descriptive of the one perfect, unchangeable, and eternal cause. This eternal cause is Life, Truth, and Love, and as we apprehend more of the divine nature, we express in human experience a higher and a better understanding of these divine qualities. The verdict of the human senses, however, does not seem to support this happy and desirable state. The human mind, educated and instructed by processes of erroneous thinking, draws conclusions of death rather than of eternal Life; conceives of man as subject to birth, maturity, and decay, and concludes that all is mortal—subject to death—as the word implies. In like manner, the human mind believes a lie rather than the truth, and envy, hatred, and revenge are substituted for Love. All these erroneous conclusions, if retained in consciousness, have but one ultimate result. Death and destruction follow. It is wholly outside the range even of the most material logic to conceive of God, who is infinite Life and the creator of all that is good, as being the author of death and destruction, or to suppose that infinite Truth and Love could possibly be responsible for any state of being, pregnant with evils, human delinquencies, and malicious purposes. To limit or circumscribe God in any degree invites disaster at the outset. It would destroy His infinite nature and deprive Him of His omnipotence, omniscience, and omnipresence. Such a god could not and does not exist, and the religionist who in his thought deifies matter, or who would take from God's infinite nature one of His qualities and bestow it upon some human belief, is an idolater and a worshiper of false gods, as truly as the children of Israel became such by bowing down to a golden calf, or as were the prophets and followers of Baal.

The Need of Salvation

We have heretofore seen that the so-called human mind believes itself to be a creator and seeks ways and means of perpetuating itself as well as of pursuing pleasure and happiness in matter. Its quest for perpetual existence and pleasure is disappointing, for, as we have seen, this mind conceives of death as the ultimate of all things. Some plan must be devised by this assumed creator to save its creature from the dire effects of its own mortality. Accordingly, this erroneous belief proceeds to devise a speculative and nebulous place somewhere in space called heaven, as well as an opposite place called hell, with a full code of regulations governing admission to each. Notwithstanding death is dissolution, destruction, yet this carnal mind, through some vague process of reasoning, would make death the entrance to heaven and hell and would have those who, perhaps through fear, have been faithful to its decrees, ushered into heaven, and have conferred upon them eternal life as a reward of merit, and, likewise, would have those who reject its plan ushered into eternal destruction as punishment. My friends, there is no such heaven and there is no such hell. The Bible plainly declares that the kingdom of heaven is within you; and it is reasonable to conclude that if the kingdom of heaven is a state of consciousness in divine Mind, its opposite, hell, must also be found in the realm of mortal mind. In the exercise of all our mental faculties, as rational individuals, we must conclude that heaven is a condition of consciousness, and is to be sought and attained here and now, and that the only means at our command by which we may become conscious of its dwelling within us is by the process of right thinking. It is not gained merely as a future reward of merit, in some habitation located by human metes and bounds. It is a real, vital condition of thought and can be experienced and enjoyed at once in proportion to the illumination of the divine Mind shining in human consciousness. Adopting the same line of argument, we conclude that a wrong mental state induces fear and other erroneous beliefs, and establishes in human consciousness the opposite of heaven—torment and hell. It is a common observation that sometimes mortals are as much in a state of torment and woe—utterly lost—as though they were actually being consumed by the traditional eternal fires of hell; and there is no escape, no deliverance from this state of torment except through the avenues of right mental action and the destruction of the erroneous beliefs which have induced this state of torment. No further argument is necessary to convince the most skeptical individual that the so-called human mind, the producing and procuring cause of all human discord and misery, is sorely in need of salvation; and we shall hope to satisfy your thought that Christian Science is the revelation of that salvation.

Christ Jesus—the Way-Shower

We have tried to bring your attention thus far to the fact that the carnal mind, through its erroneous beliefs, has utterly failed to comprehend the true nature of God and His plan of salvation. It must be evident then, that a mortal man, the creature of the carnal mind, is lost and without hope unless there is some rational and appreciable way by which he may renounce these errors and be healed of his false beliefs. The human mind tries to endow matter with life, and there is a constant endeavor to preserve and perpetuate this concept of life in the body. Jesus said, "I am come that they might have life, and that they might have it more abundantly," and, "This is life eternal, that they might know thee the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent." This is Scriptural authority for concluding that the mission of Jesus was to bring to light a higher and better sense of life, and that men should know and understand eternal Life through the knowledge of God, and His son, Christ Jesus. Christian Science proclaims Christ Jesus as the Way-shower in a practical manner by giving heed to his words and works and by repeating in human experience many of the signs and wonders which he said should follow them who believe on him. In fact, as he healed the sick, overcame sin, and raised the dead, leaving a commandment that his followers should do likewise, Christian Scientists are humbly engaged in this healing ministry. They freely admit that the highest desirable results have not yet been attained and that human discords have not been entirely overcome. The sincere Christian Scientist, however, finds much joy in the practice of the precepts of the Master and in the contemplation of the ultimate success to be attained, and he is earnestly striving to reach the high goal set by Christ Jesus, when he said, "He that believeth on me, the works that I do shall he do also; and greater works than these shall he do."

Christian Science Healing

There is a very erroneous and un-Christian belief ignorantly entertained by many concerning the attitude of Christian Scientists toward the experiences called sickness and death. The opinion is often erroneously entertained that they are unmindful of these distressing human conditions and that they offer no relief to those who unfortunately suffer from these beliefs. Nothing could be farther from the truth. They freely admit that these conditions call for the highest degree of human compassion, and they are proving their usefulness and competency by supplying humanitarian compassion in a most effectual Christian manner. They are healing sickness, sorrow, and dire distress in the most effectual way; in fact, they are doing it in the only way that holds out a ray of hope or promise for the final deliverance from these evils. They freely admit that many of those who are engaged in other modes of healing are performing noble service and are to be commended for this service and for their deeds of deep devotion in trying to relieve human suffering. They further admit that the field for service is a large one and that there should be no conflict between those who in true sincerity engage in the practice of the "healing art." Likewise, there should be due consideration and real Christian charity for all those who entertain opposing views; and Christian Scientists cheerfully accord to every individual the full liberty of conscience in determining the particular mode or system which, from his viewpoint, will best promote his happiness. Christian Scientists, of course, do not agree with those who adopt the theory that there is something wrong with matter and therefore something material must be administered to restore harmonious action. They believe that the intelligent and right way is to ascertain the offending mental cause and to remove it. They know that the procuring cause is mental, and they seek to correct that wrong mental condition by substituting therefor the right mental status. Now this is a safe, orderly procedure and produces gratifying results. They do not lay one straw in the way of those who hold differing opinions and they freely accord to them the full right to drug, cut, pull, beat, and pound the poor human body, and do the hundred and one other things which, according to their material theories, are necessary in order to arouse this body to intelligent, normal activity, providing always the one possessing that body consents to and desires such treatment. Would it seem strange that Christian Scientists should expect others to exercise the same courtesy towards them, or that they should expect to be allowed the same freedom of choice?

Christian Science Treatment—Prayer

A Christian Science treatment is a conscientious effort based upon a sincere desire to bring into human experience "the enduring, the good, and the true" (Science and Health, p. 261) so that by the renewing of the mind it can be proved what is that "perfect will of God." In other words, the reformation of the sinner and the healing of the sick is but proof that divine Principle, God, is present and available, and is, as we have heretofore seen, Immanuel or God with us. This happy and desirable mental condition is established through the medium of prayer. There is great lack of understanding among Christian people as to what constitutes true prayer. This lack of absolute knowledge is the procuring cause of much error, and accounts for the erroneous belief that Christian Scientists do not pray. Such belief has no foundation in fact. They pray continually and understandingly, and the fruits of their prayers are rich blessings to humanity. It must be remembered, however, that in their prayers they do not supplicate God to conform His will to theirs or "to change His infinite design." Neither do they charge Him with human delinquencies; and, as a matter of course, they do not petition Him to remedy or correct that which He has not created. They do pray to Him from the standpoint of sincere desire and "absolute faith that all things are possible to God" (Science and Health, p. 1); and such prayer is answered by driving out of human consciousness the diseased, erroneous images of thought and letting in the light of God's man created in His image and likeness. In other words, the Christian Science practitioner, through the medium of prayer, is establishing a positive connection with the divine Mind.

In the practice of medicine and surgery the successful physician first makes an intelligent diagnosis of his patient's case. In fact, modern medicine is laying more stress upon successful diagnosis than it is upon the administration of a remedy. This fact is significant: it indicates that the matter physician recognizes the cause of the ailment as of more importance than the method of treatment. We certainly will agree with our friends in this particular, and we frankly admit that they are proceeding in the right direction. If they follow our leading they will be compelled to adopt our conclusion as to the initial cause of disease being mental; and of course we will be glad to recommend to them the One who, as the psalmist declares, "healeth all thy diseases." As the successful physician makes his physical diagnosis, so the Christian Science practitioner is ever on the alert and actively engaged in discovering the mental status of his patient. Some of the most alarming physical conditions quickly yield to Christian Science treatment when fear, self-pity, self-love, self-condemnation, malice, hatred, revenge, and other secret, hypnotic, and mesmeric influences are uncovered and destroyed. Let me give you an illustration.

On the fertile prairies of Illinois lives a highly respected and prosperous farmer. His wife and daughter constitute his family. Through years of honest thrift this man has accumulated a fortune. His farm lands are extensive and his check passes without limitation at the bank. This farmer was reared and his life has been spent in a Christian home. He is a steadfast, conscientious believer, according to his understanding, in the efficacy of the Bible truths. He has made a manly effort to live his religious convictions and to be worthy of the name of a Christian. The wife, likewise, is possessed of all the grace and charm incident to a true, noble woman. Like her husband, she has been surrounded by religious influence all her life, and long before becoming a wife and mother united with the little band of workers in the little village church. The Bible has been her companion, and with the establishment of a home she and her husband have ever remembered the "family altar" and have kept it sacred. The other member of this household is an only daughter, a charming, lovely young girl just coming into womanhood. Thus far the surroundings furnish evidence for the conclusion that this was an ideal home. One thing, however, was lacking. This daughter was an invalid—decreed by certain so-called laws of heredity to be incurable. Early in her young life the best approved material remedies were applied without success. The family physician frankly admitted his inability to cure her. The specialist applied his technical knowledge and skill without success. The schools and institutions for medical research reviewed her affliction. The decision was the same—incurable. After these successive failure there remained one hope. Religion had been a vital force in this family and the Bible promises had never heretofore failed them. Why should not this daughter of Jairus from the dead? power of God that raised the daughter of Jairus fro mthe dead? These parents at once applied to their faithful pastor; and it should be frankly admitted that no greater tribute can be paid to the Christian ministry than the statement that the efforts of this pastor were faithfully and conscientiously given in the light of his understanding, in the effort to heal this daughter. After weeks of patient endeavor her condition remained unchanged and the family sorrowfully accepted the conclusion that her case was incurable, and sought to be reconciled to the belief that "God moves in a mysterious way."

At this time Christian Science came to their attention. After many struggles with the usual objections against it, the parents renounced all objections, and "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mrs. Eddy, and a Christian Science practitioner were secured. From the start, her improvement was rapid and pronounced. At the moment, however, when the fondest hopes of the parents and daughter seemed about to be realized, her improvement apparently ceased; her case became stationary and, while improved, she was not healed. Having been convinced that her procedure was right the daughter continued therein faithfully and courageously, and over and over again searched her consciousness to discover the subtle, hindering cause. Through her study of Christian Science she had grasped one of its basic teachings, that the cause of all disease is mental and not material, and upon a self-examination she discovered a deep sense of fear, doubt, self-pity, and resentment. She concluded that these were the elements binding her and preventing her full recovery, and she further discovered that her father and mother were entertaining exactly these same erroneous beliefs. Upon this discovery the daughter and parents set about to intelligently and effectively correct their wrong mental action, and in due time these parents were healed of many of their erroneous conclusions regarding Christian Science, and in the course of further study, development, and understanding the erroneous beliefs binding this young girl were destroyed, and she was permanently and completely healed through Christian Science and restored to happiness and harmony.

I bring this illustration to your attention in order that you may see and understand the baneful effects of ignorant, sympathetic mesmerism, operating unchecked and unconsciously under the guise of pity, remorse, or self-condemnation. I want you to understand that, regardless of motives—the well-meaning or the sincerity back of and prompting such beliefs—they are erroneous and dangerous, and constitute a serious menace to successful healing until they are recognized and destroyed. You may inquire of me, "Are you sure that Christian Science heals?" I hold no mere abstract opinion on that subject, and I answer it positively and directly. I know that it heals, and I bear public testimony to the fact that years ago through Christian Science treatment I was healed of the same serious disorder which had taken my mother, a sister, and two brothers—the entire family except my father—after all material remedies had failed both them and me. The Christian Science periodicals contain testimonies of healing, and if you will attend a Wednesday evening meeting in any Christian Science church or society throughout the world you will hear many testimonies equally authentic and perhaps even more convincing than mine.

The Signs of the Times

In 1854, Cyrus W. Field, a merchant of New York city, conceived the idea of binding Europe to America by means of a submarine cable, through which messages between the two countries could be exchanged. Upon announcement of his proposed project, he was at once hailed as a madman and as one fit for commitment to an asylum. After three unsuccessful attempts, on July 27, 1866, he successfully tied the two continents by a cable, which endures to this day. This success demonstrated the final linking of every nation of the world, and at this time there are hundreds and thousands of miles of submarine cable connecting every habitable part of the globe. This achievement is truly a noble and inspiring monument to the vision of Cyrus Field.

In November, 1921, through the establishment of electric circuits and by means of an invention known as the loud speaking amplifier, the voice of the President of the United States, while delivering an address in Arlington, was simultaneously heard and recognized by 15,000 people in Madison Square Garden in New York City, and by 27,000 people on the Pacific coast, a distance of 3700 miles. Since that time, in April, 1922, through further invention, the human voice was broadcasted through space, hundreds and thousands of miles without wire or cable, with just a sending and receiving instrument in perfect adjustment. Thus, through its own invention, the human mind has eliminated two of its most cherished elements—that of time and space. The period of time embraced between the transmission by a "runner" of the first message on a piece of crude bark to the instantaneous broadcasting of the human voice over hundreds of miles, without wire or cable, is rich in advancement and progress. These are inspiring monuments to the achievements of mankind. The law governing the latest invention was just as available at the time that the crude bark was used and during all of the intervening years as it was in April, 1922. The human mind, however, required years of education and unfoldment before it could relinquish the use of the bark, the wire and the cable. Thought, however, was developing and unfolding, and in due time this law, awaiting a discovered, was brought to light.

Likewise, in the year 1866, Mrs. Eddy discovered Christian Science, the Christ-cure. Her undertakings were more revolutionary and more in advance of the times than those of Field. Like him, however, when apparently forsaken by friends and acquaintances, she pressed on, proving each new step, until finally she gave to the world a restatement of primitive Christianity, binding it together by her statement of spiritual law more effectively than does the submarine cable. As the law of the radio broadcasting was real and available, likewise the laws of spiritual healing have always been real, awaiting a discoverer to make them available for present use. Hundreds of years of idolatry and false belief had obscured these laws until revealed and unfolded in the receptive thought of Mary Baker Eddy, and restated by her in Christian Science.

In the achievements of Mary Baker Eddy may we not see more than simply the founding and establishing of a great organization? May we not see the shadow of that time when the whole "earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea"?

May we not see in the successes achieved by the instantaneous broadcasting of the human voice our close approach to the time when the operation of spiritual law shall appear to human consciousness as natural and as normal as the manifestations of material law now seem—the time spoken of by the psalmist when he said "He spake, and it was done"?

In conclusion, I want to recommend an earnest, conscientious endeavor on the part of every one of my hearers to apply the Christ-healing as taught and practiced in Christian Science to the discord, misery, sin and unholy conditions in human experience. I know that this endeavor will bless you, and in proportion as you understandingly destroy one element of evil in your own consciousness you are helping to destroy it for the whole world. I know of no better concluding thought to leave with you than that contained within the following admonition from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" (p. 495): "When the illusion of sickness or sin tempts you, cling steadfastly to God and His idea. Allow nothing but His likeness to to abide in your thought. Let neither fear nor doubt overshadow your clear sense and calm trust, that the recognition of life harmonious—as Life eternally is—can destroy any painful sense of, or belief in, that which Life is not. Let Christian Science, instead of corporeal sense, support your understanding of being, and this understanding will supplant error with Truth, replace mortality with immortality, and silence discord with harmony."

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the Board of Education of the Glendale City School District of the County of Los Angeles, California, will receive sealed bids on or before Tuesday, July 3, 1923, 7:30 p. m., at Board of Education rooms, 107½ South Brand Boulevard, Glendale, California, at which time and place said bids will be opened and read in public; for furnishing all required labor and material for the construction, erection and completion of a one-story, 3-room building at the Magnolia Avenue school site, Glendale, California, in accordance with plans and specifications prepared therefor by C. C. Rittenhouse, architect, 449 Wilcox Building, Los Angeles, California. Bids will be received separately for each kind of work as follows:

1.—General.
2.—Heating.
3.—Plumbing.

A cashier's or certified check, or bidder's bond issued by a surety company accredited by the Board of Education, for an amount not less than five per cent (5%) of the amount of bid shall accompany each proposal, drawn payable to the order of Board of Education of the Glendale City School District, as a guarantee that the bidder will enter into contract if awarded the work and will be declared forfeited if the successful bidder refuses to enter into said contract after being requested so to do by the Board of Education.

The successful bidder will be required to furnish two bonds of a surety company satisfactory to said Board of Education covering an amount equal to 75% of the contract price, to guarantee payment of bills and completion of contract.

All bids must be made out on forms furnished by said architect.

Plans and specifications for all the above work may be seen at the office of the architects, and of the office of the Board of Education. Addresses as stated above.

A deposit of $10.00 will be required from all contractors receiving plans and specifications, said deposit to be refunded to bidders when plans and specifications are returned in good condition.

The Board of Education reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informality on any bid received.

The successful contractor shall be required to file with the Secretary of the Board of Education, a letter from a general agent of some approved insurance company stating that he has obtained unlimited compensation insurance to fully cover all men under his employ during the erection of this building.

By order of the Board of Education of the Glendale City School District.

GOLDEN STATE COLLEGE OF CHIROPRACTIC WORK

While Los Angeles is progressing rapidly in an industrial way, it is not being neglected in any educational way. Many of the educational institutions are forced to make room for the increased enrollment.

None are making greater strides than those teaching chiropractic..

The public is demanding higher standards for all kinds of education and it is with this point in view, that the Golden State College of Chiropractic, was founded. It is one school of the coast teaching straight Palmer methods and from Palmer text books.

Its clinics are well attended and hundreds are regaining their health through adjustments received. A complete course is given, including Xray and Dissection. Both day and night classes are being tought and every convenience is to be had for the student.

TAPESTRY BAGS

As convenient as they are smart are large bags of tapestry with ample space to hold knitting or even if necessary, to serve as an overnight bag.

CITY PRINTING

PUBLIC NOTICE

WHEREAS, The City Council of the City of Glendale, has heretofore by Ordinance No. 731, established a certain Industrial District in the City of Glendale; and

WHEREAS, pursuant to the provisions of Section 2, Article XV of the Charter of the City of Glendale, a petition has been filed with the City Clerk of said City by H. T. Paschal and others, asking that the Industrial District established by said Ordinance No. 731, be amended by and changed so as to exclude from said Industrial District, property more particularly hereinafter described; and

WHEREAS, said City Clerk has presented said petition to the City Council; and

WHEREAS, before any change can be made in said Industrial District it is necessary under said Section 2 of Article XV of the Charter of said City, and said Council has directed that public notice of a hearing be given by the City Clerk by one publication in the official newspaper of said City, at least ten days before the time of such hearing.

NOW, THEREFORE, and pursuant to the requirements of said Section 2, Article XV, of the Charter of the City of Glendale, and the direction of said City Council,

PUBLIC NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN

that at the hour of 7 o'clock P. M. of the 5th day of July, 1923, at the Council Chamber in the City of Glendale, a public hearing will be given and had upon said proposed amendment or change of said Industrial District, when and where all persons having any objections to said amendment or change in said Industrial District, may appear before said City Council and present any objection, or objections, which they may have to said proposed amendment or change in said Industrial District. Any person having an interest in any of the frontage of property which will be directly affected by said proposed amendment or change in said Industrial District. Said protest must be filed not later than the hour set for hearing, when all protestants may appear before the Council at said hearing, either in person or by counsel, and be heard in support of their protests or objections.

That property described in said petition and sought to be excluded from said Industrial District, is described as follows:

All of Lots 1 to 6, inclusive, of Tract No. 6196, as per Maps recorded in Book 65, Page 65 of Maps, Records of Los Angeles County, California.

The petition above referred to is on file in the office of the City Clerk of the City of Glendale and is hereby referred to for further particulars.

This notice shall be published once in the Glendale Daily Press, the official newspaper of said City, at least ten days before the date of the hearing hereinabove mentioned.

Dated, June 21, 1923.

NOTICE CALLING FOR BIDS

Sealed bids will be received by the Council of the City of Glendale until 7:00 P. M. on Thursday, July 12, 1923, to deliver f. o. b. cars Glendale, California:

1—400 H. P. synchronous motor for operation on 50 cycle 2200 volt 3 phase current, with a temperature rise not exceeding 40 degrees.

The motor shall preferably be excited from a generator or exciter mounted on an extension of the motor shaft. Motor to be supplied complete, including an automatic starting compensator fitted with no-voltage and overload relays, an ammeter, a voltmeter, a power factor meter, field rheostat and switch with discharge resistance for motor and field rheostat for exciter, a main line 2200-volt oil switch, all mounted on a suitable synchronous motor panel in accordance with the rules and regulations of the Industrial Accident Commission of the State of California.

Bidders to submit complete electrical characteristics of the motor they propose to furnish, together with the guaranteed efficiencies of motor with exciter operating at unity power factor at ½, ¾ and full load; including a description of the mechanical design of the amortisseur or starting windings; also curves showing its starting characteristics. Bidder also to state the kind and grade of insulation used in the construction of the motor he proposes to furnish.

All bidders must present with their bids certified checks, drawn on a solvent bank doing business in the State of California, payable to the City of Glendale, for an amount equal to ten (10) per cent of the bid. Said certified check is to guarantee that the successful bidder will enter into a valid contract with the City and furnish with said contract a bond of twenty-five (25) per cent of the amount bid for the faithful performance of the said contract.

Council reserves the right to reject any and all bids.

REV. C. M. CALDERWOOD PREACHES TO MASONS ON ST. JOHN'S DAY

Congregational Church Filled With the Fraternity, Called to Do Honor to Patron of the Order at Annual Services

The Congregational church on North Central was filled for the special service for Masonic orders Sunday morning, members of the Blue Lodge being more largely represented than others. The fine musical program included beautiful trio numbers by Julius Kranz, violinist; J. H. Myers, 'cellist, and Mrs. Gertrude Champlain Erb, pianiste. There was also a special vocal duet by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cavanah.

The address was by Rev. C. M. Calderwood, pastor of the church, who said:

"And the house, when it was in building, was built of stone, made ready before it was brought thither; so that there was neither hammer nor ax, nor any of iron heard in the house while it was in building."—I. Kings; 6:7.

Brethren of the Ancient, Free and Accepted Masons, we are gathered here this evening to show to the world that not only as individuals, but as a fraternity, we believe in the church, that for which it stands, what it does and what it teaches. But more than that, we are here as a fraternity to publicly worship and bow before the Supreme Architect of the Universe.

God is the Supreme Architect, and we are the workmen carrying on His work and His bidding. We have banded ourselves together as a body of workmen that we may better do his work. The Supreme Architect wants good workmen, for there is much careful work to be done.

We are all God's workmen. We must not fail to recognize this. We must recognize the fact that we are God's sons and that we are here to do God's work. We have the choice between carrying out God's plans or of hindering them by our opposition. The very hairs of our heads are numbered, for God knows that we may become invaluable workmen for Him.

We are builders of the civilization which has much to do with our destinies and the destinies of those who are to follow us. We determine the social conditions under which we and others live. We have much to do with shaping the habits and customs of our race. We are building the human laws which restrain some and assist others. But in addition to these things we are building our own and others' characters which express themselves in these ways. In our fraternity the great emphasis is on character building, and we are constantly admonished that in this work we must ever recognize the wisdom, the power, and the authority of the Supreme Architect—God.

Our text: "There was neither hammer, nor ax, nor any tool of iron heard in the house while it was in building," is taken from a description of the building of King Solomon's temple.

The temple of King Solomon was one of the most magnificent and most costly buildings ever erected. The gold came from the largest and richest mines of Arabia, precious stones were imported from the islands of the seven seas, the marble was the most beautiful that could be quarried, and the great timbers were sawed from the mammoth cedars of Lebanon. If erected today the temple would cost many millions of dollars. It took many long years to plan it, and seven years to build it, although there was a great army at work on it. There were 80,000 men at work in the forests of Lebanon, and in all perhaps 150,000 workmen.

We are told that so carefully was the work done in the forests, the yards where the timbers were sawed, and in the quarries, in fitting the parts, that in the erection of the temple "there was neither hammer, nor ax, nor any tool of iron heard while it was building."

But while the building of the temple may have gone on quietly in Jerusalem, we are not to infer that all was quiet in preparing the foundation, in the forests of Lebanon, or in the gold mines of Arabia. There was much noise in the falling and the crashing of trees in the forest; 80,000 men chopping and hauling the timbers could not have been quiet. There must have been noise as the logs were made into floats and taken to Joppa and then transported overland to Jerusalem. All was not quiet in the quarries when the stones were being chiselled out, or in the polishing of the marble. There was noise as the teams of horses or oxen brought their great loads up Mount Moriah; and in the hammering of the gold.

As we compare the building of King Solomon's temple with the building of our characters we find that there are many points of similarity.

There have been many great forces that have contributed to the building of our characters which have not been silent forces. Even the Supreme Architect does not do all his work quietly. There is the roaring of the mountain stream, the rumbling of the eorthquake, the eruption of the volcano, there is crash of the thunder, and the murmur of the wind. The erection of civilization and the hammering out of character all has not been peaceful and quiet. Many fields have been drenched in the blood of battle to bring about the conditions that produce lofty character. The hills and the seas have resounded with the roar of the cannon that men might be free to develop character. Peace, justice, human rights and liberty have come with conflict's crash. Industry is not quiet—there is the hum of the loom and the tapping of the hammer.

The things that we should hold dear have come with the struggle of conflict, the grinding of the machine. It has taken much talk and some shouting to bring our needed reforms. The babble of a national political convention has much to do with national destiny.

Other lands than Palestine furnished the materials out of which the great temple was builded. Other lands and other conditions mold our character. There was much skill exercised in the mountains and the quarries, else the great temple coud not have been erected. In like manner we have not made the materials which have gone into the building of our characters. You may select and utilize, but others are furnishing much of the materials that enter into your life.

Other times than those of King Solomon entered in the construction of that great temple. The cedars had been growing for a thousand years on Lebanon. The marble of its pillars had been lying in the earth for 100,000 years. Its jewels had been crystalized in the hoary hand of time. So other times have furnished us with the materials out of which we build our characters. Much of the work of the preparation for the building of the temple had been in the time of stress and strain by King David. Evil enemies had to be driven out of the country before the erection of the building could be commenced. So we are taught to divest ourselves of the vices and superfluities of life. It has been with much confusion that time has turned the savage into a civilized man of refinements. It has not been without noise that time has given to us the God in whom we trust, the Holy Bible, square and compass.

Other times and other lands have given to us the great lights for the way of life. Operative Masons in King Solomon's time had to take into consideration the lessons and the contributions of the past and so must we as Speculative Masons. We cannot ignore these forces in character building.

But, as in the building of King Solomon's temple there was neither hammer, nor ax, nor any tool of iron heard in the building, so there are silent forces in the building of our characters. The work of these other forces is necessary. There must be noise in laying foundations, in gathering materials and in knocking off the rough corners; but the refining work is that of the great silent forces.

God works with the thunder, the tornado, the avalanche and the earthquake, but his greatest work is done silently. Millions of tons of water are drawn silently from the earth to the clouds. Millions of tons of corn and wheat will be drawn silently out of the earth by the magnetism of the sun's heat. The silent force of gravitation holds the earth in its course and silently holds all things in their proper place upon the earth.

How the silent forces shape our characters! Masonry is not unmindful of these. We are taught that we can be neither good men nor masons without utilizing these great forces. The formation of a man's character is not so much done by the rough work without as by the workings of the silent forces that are within.

What are these silent forces? The first and greatest is God. This is the God in whom we put our trust. No atheist can become a mason, for God must be fundamental in every good mason's life. We must recognize God as the greatest force in our lives. "Underneath us are the everlasting arms." "God is our shield and buckler." He is our defense, our strength, our ever-present help.

Can God lead? He has led. He led the Children of Israel. He led the prophets, the apostles, the martyrs, the reformers. He can lead us.

Can God help? We have the testimony of millions whom he has helped.

Has God wisdom? He created the universe and us. He must know the universe and us. He knows the thoughts of our minds, the loves of our hearts, and the aspirations of our souls. No one can know our divine life but the Divine Being. We do not know the right way of life. The things of the soul and the higher life are mysteries to us. God knows all these.

Was there ever a great man who did not put his trust in God. The man who would do a great piece of work would better ally himself with God as our Grand Master Hiram did.

Faith in God will enrich the intellect and stimulate the affections. Those men who landed on the shores of this commonwealth 300 years ago were God-intoxicated men.

Take God out of the world's great men and what have you left? Take God out of Luther, John Knox, Gladstone, Lincoln, and there is nothing left. By faith in God all the world's great deeds have been done. It is only by faith in God that great characters are formed.

Your trust being in God, your faith is well founded.

We believe in prayer as one of the great silent forces. We always invoke the blessing of the deity. Prayer is the opening up of the mind and soul to receive blessings. It is the act of putting life on a higher level, of placing ourselves in God's care. Solomon prayer: "O Lord, I am but a little child." Hiram, the great master builder, prayed each day at noon. The soul that has cut itself off from communication with the Supreme Architect cannot build life.

God has great things for us which he can give to us only through prayer. Every one who has built up a great edifice of character has turned to God for help. God knows the great plans for life. Why not consult Him?

This is the reason every mason is taught that others may pray for him, but also that he must pray for himself. In the time of supreme need there is no one to whom we go but to the Supreme Being.

Another important silent force in building up our characters is the Holy Bible. It is a great light shining along the pathway of life. It is the rule and guide to our faith. Our faith is in God, and the Holy Bible is the correct guide to our faith in God. We give the Bible a central place in our work because we believe it is central in character building. Around it clusters our most sacred memories, and in it we find the rules for the best living. Directly and indirectly it has had its silent influence upon us, and therefore we honor it.

These silent forces—God, prayer and the Holy Bible—have created another force, which we all recognize, and that is love for the brethren. This is essential if we are to be what we ought to be. We are not giving God the proper place in our lives if we do not love the brethren. The man who does not love and serve others loses his own soul. It is brotherly love and affection which unites us into one sacred band of friends and brothers. As cement is necessary in holding together the parts of a great building, so brotherly love is necessary to hold mankind together. A building will stand only so long as the cement endures. We may, therefore, declare that so long as the hearts of the craftsmen are bound together by the sincere affection of brotherly love, so long will fraternity endure.

We do not forget the part that righteousness plays in true living. The Prophet Amos gives us a lesson on the plumb line. The plumb admonishes us to walk uprightly before God and man. No building can be erected without a plumb, and sterling characters cannot be built without the plumb line of righteousness. The plumb provides the disposition, aims and ideals of character. Without these we fail in character building.

Other tools used in building have their lessons for us, as we aim at high and noble characters. The square teaches us lessons of integrity. Integrity should govern our conduct in all our dealings with our fellow men. The square means adherence to the golden rule; it means speaking the truth, standing for the right and acting from a high sense of honor. The level teaches the sublime truth of the equality of manhood under one supreme being, before whom all are brothers. Unless we learn this lesson, we cannot love the brethren, and our characters suffer. We are taught lessons of restriction from the use of compasses. We are taught that true life does not permit license. We must be circumscribed and kept within due bounds with all mankind. Masonry endeavors to train its members to control their tongues, tempers and temperaments.

The first great work of masons was the erection of a temple of worship. The first great work for us is the erection of the temple of the soul, where God is recognized and where He is permitted to rule supreme, where prayer is wont to be made, where the Holy Bible is given a central place, and where the higher life is expressed through love for man. We need the refining work of these great silent forces. If we neglect these we neglect the greatest forces in character building.

May God bless us in all our laudable undertakings.

L. A. PRESBYTERY JUNE MEETING TO BE AT FULLERTON

The Presbytery of Los Angeles will hold its June meeting in the Presbyterian church of Fullerton tomorrow. This meeting will be of more than usual interest as reports will be given by the delegates who attended the recent Presbyterian General Assembly which met in Indianapolis. The Indianapolis assembly attracted more attention than any other like assembly of recent years, as matters came before it which were of the gravest import to the entire church and to other denominations as well. It is expeced that some of these matters will be discussed before the Fullerton meeting tomorrow when the delegates give their reports. The Glendale Presbyterian church will be represented in the Fullerton meeting by the pastor, Rev. W. E. Edmonds; the assistant pastor, Rev. Louis Tinning, and as a representative of the session, Elder D. L. Foster of 607 East Elk street. A report of the general assembly will be made to the Glendale church at an early date by one of the men who attended the assembly in Indianapolis.

LA CRESCENTA NOTES

Mrs. M. R. Bissell of Grand Rapids is the house guest of her son, Harvey S. Bissell of "Hi-Up" ranch. Mrs. Bissell with her daughter, Mrs. D. A. McKey of Pasadena and niece, Mrs. Kittie Smith of Grand Rapids, returned Saturday from an extended tour of the Orient.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Turk left last week for La Jolla, Calif., where they have taken a cottage for the summer.

Addison McKelvy of Atchison, Kansas, was the guest of Dean Culberson, last week. Mr. McKelvy has been a student at Stanford the past year.

Miss E. Longyear, a resident of the La Crescenta hotel, left Thursday for an extended motor trip through the east. Miss Longyear was accompanied by Mrs. Ann Davis Thomas.

C. B. Mallory of East Honolulu avenue left last Wednesday on a business trip through Texas and Louisiana.

Mrs. Hattie Marsh of Hollywood was the guest of Miss Delia Bastable over Sunday.

Dr. and Mrs. J. G. Telfer and sons, Robert and James, motored to San Francisco, Thursday, where they will be the guest of relatives for two weeks.

Lorine Czerniski and Fred Czerniski, of East Michigan avenue motored to Santa Barbara for the week-end.

Harold Swanson, Lawrence Potter and James Hooper are the local representatives of the Boy Scouts, who will attend the patrol leaders' conference at Camp Royl-Kent, next week.

One of the delightful affairs of last week was a luncheon at which Mrs. Charles Bowden of 134 West Mayfield was hostess to her card club. Her guests numbered 12, and included friends from Los Angeles and Hollywood.

Mark S. Collins and son, Stuart Collins are leaving Wednesday for their old home in the state Maine.

Y. M. C. A. CATALINA CAMP HAS MERRY TOURNAMENT

Saturday was visiting day and a hilarious time for the Y. M. C. A. boys at Catalina. The boys celebrated with a mock rose tournament containing a dozen entries that were decidedly unique and amusing. Next Saturday Mr. Kelley will take to the island a delegation of forty-five boys and leaders from the Glendale district.

SCHOOL HOUSES LA CRESCENTA CHURCH FOLKS

The Sunday school and services of the Community church were held at the school auditorium yesterday and will continue to be held there until the church under construction on Montrose avenue is finished. The fast-growing membership and attendance made the change from the small church on Michigan avenue to the school auditorium necessary. The services were in charge of the pastor, Rev. H. A. Kelso. At the resignation of C. W. Angier, superintendent of the Sunday school, James L. Brown of Montrose was appointed to fill the vacancy, Mr. Angier acting as assistant superintendent. This arrangement will give Mr. Angier more time to devote to the Boy Scouts, being scoutmaster of the local organization. C. McDaniel will have charge of the music of the Sunday school and director of the choir, filling the vacancy made by Mrs. E. Harcourt's departure.

NAZARENE TENT ATTRACTS LARGE THRONG SUNDAY

Large crowds attended both afternoon and evening services at the Nazarene tent on Sunday. Philipians 4:19 was chosen by Rev. Swaney as the text for the afternoon service. The subject of the sermon was "God's Budget Plans." Rev. Swaney said that when a church wanted to raise money it adopted or formulated a plan to raise the amount needed. He referred to heaven as the Christian's bank.

The tent was filled with a capacity audience at the night service. Among the visitors were members of the Broadway M. E. church, south. Mrs. Charles Newman was at the piano. The musical numbers were provided by Mr. and Mrs. H. Hull of Los Angeles. There will be meetings each night this week, commencing at 7:30 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. M. Burton of 1544 West Tenth street, Glendale, who are enjoying several weeks' recreation at Briggs' terrace, in the Sierras, were home over the week-end.

Why not let me sell your house by auction? Come in and talk it over.
